WOMAN'S TALKATHON SAVES BROADWAY SHOW

NEW YORK (AP)—A woman out-talked the theatre critics Sunday.

Bella Spewack, veteran co-writer of many Broadway hits, with her husband, Sam, went on the warpath when virtually all the reviewers panned the team's new comedy, "Festival," that opened last Tuesday.

Because of the adverse notices, producers Walter Fried and Felix Brentano announced the show's closing for Saturday night. But Mrs. Spewack insisted on making a curtain speech at each performance and went on a whirlwind series of television appearances, urging the public to come see the show.

Sunday, Fried and Brentano said the Spewack crusade had caused such an upturn in box office sales that "Festival" will continue its run indefinitely.

Freed Canadian PW Backs Visit Plan

MacKenzie Encourages American Parents In Face of State Department Reluctance

WASHINGTON (UP)—Several congressmen said today the State Department fears relatives of 17 imprisoned Americans would be "falling into a propaganda trap" if they visited the Red China prison camps.

Meanwhile, a Canadian ace recently freed by the Chinese has strengthened one couple's resolve to visit their imprisoned son, and has convinced another that the trip might be a good idea.

Squadron Leader A. R. (Andy) MacKenzie of Montreal, who spent two years in Communist prison camps before his release last December, has visited three of four PW families, carrying out a promise he made to Americans he met in the prison camps.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fischer, who had already decided to leave for China in mid-February, said they were more confident and "enthusiastic" after talking to MacKenzie Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Parks of Omaha, Neb., who were "wary" about the proposal at first, said, after their conversation with MacKenzie, the proposal might be a good one.

DECISION UNCHANGED
At Lincoln, Neb., however, the Canadian ace failed to change the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Cameron.

Cameron said after his meeting with MacKenzie that "if we went it would acknowledge that

Crown Witness In Murder Trial Dies in Accident

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (CP)—Authorities said today a man killed Saturday in a mining accident 60 miles west of here had been scheduled to testify at a murder trial due to start Wednesday in Sudbury, Ont.

John Naegel, 22, formerly of Olen, Sask., was listed as a crown witness at the trial of Robert Bruce Ducharme, also 22, of Hamilton, accused of murder in the shooting last month of school teacher Steve Klapouschak, 21.

Naegel was crushed under two tons of rock when he fell down a shaft at the Renable mine.

Klapouschak, who home was in Timmins, was found dead beside a school house at Dalton, 45 miles west of Chapleau. Police said he had been shot five times and apparently robbed.

Tug Hits Reef Off Merry Island

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heroism of a lighthousekeeper on lonely Merry Island in Georgia Strait is credited today with saving the lives of two men who clung to a barge for more than an hour Saturday night after their small tug sank off the island.

Rescued from the storm-tossed waters off the island were Ernest Marshall, skipper of the tug Page, of Campbell River, and deckhand Bert Barnes.

The two men were rescued about midnight Saturday by lighthousekeeper George Potts, who maintains the light on Merry Island, about 15 miles south of Pender Harbor.

IN DARKNESS

Potts, who saw the small tug strike a reef off the island and sink, immediately put out alone in a light rowboat and battled his way through heavy seas in the darkness to reach the men clinging to the half-submerged barge they had been towing.

After picking the two men up, the keeper took them to his station on the island and they were later taken to Campbell River after the barge had been refloated by the tug Point Grey Swell.

The Page, owned by Capt. William Hall of Campbell River, was en route to Campbell River from Vancouver when she struck the reef shortly after 11 p.m. She was towing a barge with a caterpillar tractor on board.

"Lyle always said so, but there used to be a little doubt in my mind."

The three couples are parents of airmen forced down during the Korean war.

They are not included among the 11 airmen who have been convicted by the Chinese Reds on trumped-up spy charges.

"BUNCH OF BUNK"

In Washington today a spokesman said the state department has not decided whether to lift its travel ban and issue necessary travel permits for the U.S. families to travel to the Communist country.

Chairman James P. Richards (D-S.C.) of the house foreign affairs committee, denounced as "a bunch of bunk" Red China's offer to let the families visit their kinsmen.

"I hope these relatives won't sell their birthright for a mess of pottage," Richards said.

Big things were afoot for Canada that spring morning
in 1855

THOSE WERE eventful times, 100 years ago, with a million busy Canadians on the move. And in the bustling city of Toronto, 20 businessmen launched an enterprise that typified the progress of their times—the Canada Permanent Building and Savings Society.

From that day in 1855 when Peter Paterson, pioneer storekeeper, signed the books as the first subscriber, the Society grew rapidly with Canada to become the nation-wide Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation. Throughout these 100 years, Canada Permanent has never missed a dividend payment nor failed to meet an obligation . . . a record this progressive institution proudly carries into its second century of service to Canadians.

Giant Rats Swarm Into Paris Homes

New Danger as Seine River On Worst Rampage in 31 Years

PARIS (UP)—The rampaging Seine River reached its highest level in 31 years today, flooding thousands out of homes and jobs and driving giant rats from the sewers of Paris.

BREAKS ARM SECOND TIME, SPEAKS AGAIN

NEW YORK (UP)—When Patrick Flanagan was two years old he fell and broke his arm. The shock of the accident left him unable to speak.

Sunday night, Patrick, now eight years old, fell and broke his arm again. Rushed to a hospital the boy asked, "What are you doing to my arm?" when Dr. John Ivanova began to set the break.

It was the first words he had spoken in six years. His father fainted.

Travel World Moved By New Polar Flights

'Causing Some Stir' In U.K. Says Paper

LONDON (CP)—The announcement from Ottawa that Canadian Pacific Airlines will operate a service from Vancouver to Amsterdam by the way of the polar region "is causing some stir" in Britain, the Manchester Guardian says.

The newspaper says rough calculations show the flying time from London to Tokyo by way of Vancouver will be 28 hours, about 10 hours better than anything available on conventional Middle East routes.

"Indeed, the . . . proposal has such potential repercussions in the travel world that it was taken to the cabinet in Ottawa before the final decision was obtained this week-end."

The newspaper adds that historians will also be interested. "The new route will make the northwest passage to the Orient a reality, possibly before the Scandinavians achieve it. . . . Passengers will catch glimpses of such chilly sights as Hudson Bay, the Barren Lands and the snow-capped Rockies, but such is the march of civilization that they will at no point be more than one hour's flying time from a military or civil air base."

Then the waters slowly began to fall. Authorities warned that the Seine may rise again to a dangerous new crest tomorrow or later this week unless the rains end.

At least 22 persons have died in the floods and damages exceeded millions of dollars. Dead-weary American airmen in canary-colored exposure suits helped evacuate families in the flooded Paris suburbs where muddy yellow water of the Seine and the Marne swirled into homes and factories.

Thousands of giant rats swarmed into basements of riverside buildings and the Paris prefecture of police warned inhabitants to kill them or call for official help.

It was the rats which carried the great plagues of the Middle Ages.

The disaster was the worst since 1924. Six French army engineer companies rushed to Paris over the week-end as the national disaster plan swung into action to keep the Seine out of the capital whose ancient motto is "it floats but does not sink."

After reaching a crest of 23 feet and 5 inches, the Seine dropped 2 inches. But the Marne was still rising as it emptied into the Seine and authorities said the famous river may rise to a new peak tomorrow.

Upriver east of Paris the situation was improving but downriver to the west it was still serious.

"Three bridges, the Pont Des Invalides and the Arts and Tokio footbridges, were closed. And water seeped into basements of the Notre Dame Cathedral, the Palais de Justice, the Quai D'Orsay (foreign office) and other famous buildings."

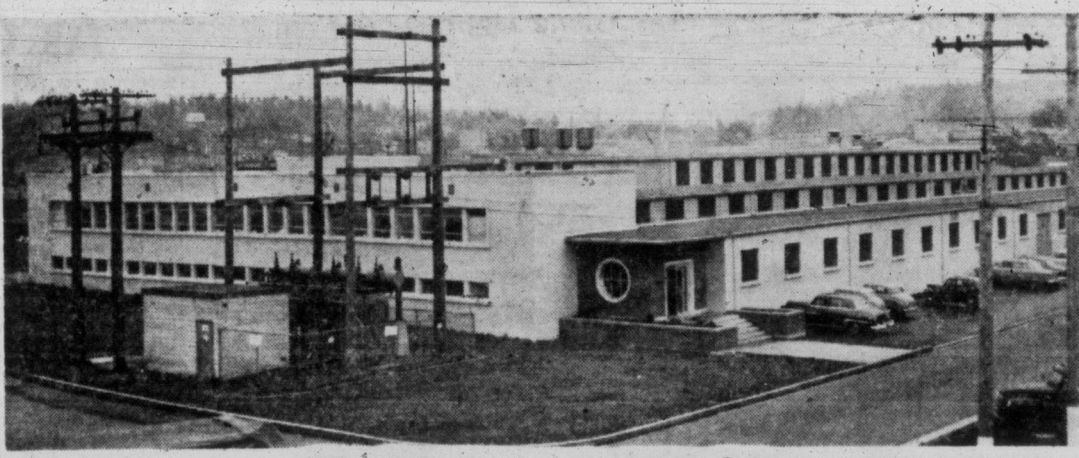

Elsewhere throughout France other rivers were in flood, although some were beginning to fall after reaching their highest crests in years.

The Garonne flooded out of its banks at several spots. The Rhone was in full flood from Lyon to Avignon. The Saone spilled its banks to roof-top height at Ver Jux and cut off the villages of Villefrance and Quindieux.

JOBLESS INSURANCE ALL WASHED UP?

OLDHAM, Eng. (AP)—The scheme of two housewives who qualified for jobless insurance benefits by doing each other's washing came to light in this Lancashire town Sunday. Here's how it worked: They employed each other and met every Monday to exchange laundry. For six months—the minimum required to qualify for unemployment compensation—they stamped each other's national insurance cards, signifying they worked. Then they fired each other.

For the next six months they collected jobless benefits amounting to 26 shillings ($3.64) per week each. Then they rehired each other and started another cycle. A labor ministry official said "I don't think there's anything we can do about it . . . it is probably going on all over the country."

Union of CCF, Liberals In B.C. Rejected

Only Way to Get Social Credit Govt. Out of Office, Former CCF MP Declares

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—Harry Archibald, former CCF Member of Parliament for Skeena, said the British Columbia Socialist party should unite with the provincial Liberal Party to get the Social Credit government out of office in the next election.

Archibald told a meeting here Sunday night that the Social Credit preached Fascism, and the CCF was helpless to defeat them in the next election. "There is a real danger of Fascism which will grow as the Social Credit party grows in power," he told the meeting of the Stanley Park CCF Club. "Our only chance to halt this oncoming rush of Fascism is a united front with the Liberals to avert a crisis," he said. "There is such a crisis threatening the nation, and a grave danger that Social Credit could get in the saddle."

The meeting rejected Archibald's proposal, however. "This winter fly to beautiful Hawaii" was the theme of a separate advertisement.

Quebec Not Backward Jesuits Tell Regier

Speech of CCF Member for Vancouver 'Insulting' and 'Shocking Ignorance'

MONTREAL (BUP)—A Jesuit publication today accused a CCF Member of Parliament from British Columbia of displaying "shocking ignorance" in a recent speech in which he warned that Quebec was ripe for Communism.

The publication "Relations" criticized Erhart Regier, the member for Burnaby-Coquitlam, for the Commons' speech he delivered Jan. 12.

The publication admitted that the government of Premier Maurice Duplessis was the only provincial administration not to sign a fiscal agreement with Ottawa, renting out direct taxation rights to the federal government in exchange for subsidies.

"The backward province is not Quebec, where natural rights of parents, Protestant as well as a Catholic, are perfectly respected," the article said.

"Mr. Regier forgets that, if the province of Quebec was the only one which failed to sign an agreement with the federal government, it was not the only province to believe that the present agreements (with the other provinces) do not sufficiently respect provincial autonomy," the article added.

"Relations" said Regier had "insulted" Quebec and had done "ill service to his party, which is already suspected of exaggerated centralizing tendencies."

The Jesuit monthly pointed specifically to the question of the educational treatment accorded the Anglo-Protestant minority in the province and compared it to the treatment of Roman Catholic taxpayers in British Columbia, where it said residents were double-taxed in order to have denominational schools.

Sobbing Songs Mark Douk's First Visit

NELSON (CP)—Freedomite fathers and mothers lined up on one side of a cold, snowy street Sunday, their children on the other and they sang to each other as their visiting hour came to a close.

Adults wiped tears from their eyes and children burst into sobs as they parted under the surveillance of RCMP guards.

The children returned to their dormitories in the New Denver welfare home and the majority of the parents to Krestova, Sons of Freedom stronghold from which 40 of the 74 children they were visiting were taken last week.

Sunday was the first time parents had seen their children since they were swept from their homes Tuesday in a surprise raid by RCMP and B.C. welfare officials in the continuing drive to force Freedomite children to attend schools.

Some 40 cars lined the highway and side roads outside the welfare home and close to 100 stood visiting in groups in the cold yard. A visiting building had been provided, but was not large enough. Visitors were not allowed in the home.

Throughout the group, children could be seen clutching clothing and personal treasures their parents and friends had brought them. When farewells

A glimpse of home...

FOR THE CANADIAN ARMY OVERSEAS

This sketch shows the ceremony which attended the visit of the Seagram Collection of Paintings, "Cities of Canada," to our Armed Forces stationed in Europe.

This visit to Canada's First Infantry Brigade stationed in Soest, West Germany, was the 16th exhibition on the Collection's year-long 30,000-mile international tour.

Everywhere it was shown, throughout Latin America and Europe, the Seagram Collection received an enthusiastic welcome. But the reception it was given by our troops was among the warmest of all, for here were more than paintings: here were familiar and well-beloved scenes, here were native cities that awakened cherished memories . . . here was a glimpse of home for those away from home.

Guaranteed Income Next?

ONE OF THE MAJOR PROBLEMS facing United States industry in the coming year will be organized labor's demand for what is called the guaranteed annual wage.

This demand represents labor's attempt to stabilize employment, or at least the worker's income, by forcing industry to guarantee full pay cheques for 52 weeks a year whether or not the worker may be laid off for a portion of that time.

It is argued that with the necessity of full payment facing him, the employer will make every effort to keep the man or woman on the job, thus levelling out employment. But even if laid off, the worker will be able to buy as much as usual, so that prices will be supported and the demand for products will continue, again aiding employment.

The theory obviously amends the usual dictum that every individual has the right to a job, making it read that every individual has the right to the income from a job. By corollary, then, he should be kept in a job to match the income.

It is easy to see the attractiveness of full annual incomes regardless of production; it is more difficult to see the practicability of the idea.

Critics of the plan point out that employers already make every effort to keep as many employees busy as possible, since it is in their own interest as well as that of the worker. They say, too, that workers would lose all incentive to find new jobs if they received as much for not working as for working. Current unemployment insurance schemes assist workers in emergencies, but are far too low to invite subsistence on them longer than is necessary.

Against the plan, also, is the argument that employers would try to keep staffs as small as possible, using overtime shifts when necessary, in order to avoid paying surplus workers in slack times. To this extent, the plan would discourage rather than aid employment.

It is argued that funds to support the plan, like all benefits for workers, must come out of the revenues from sale of the product. If these revenues are not big enough to support large direct wage increases, there is no magic by which they can be made to produce wages for temporarily non-producing workers.

It is expected that the highly competitive automobile industry will be the first target for the guaranteed wage campaign. Automobile producers, like many others, depend on thousands of smaller sub-producers to supply parts. But if the big firms must pay laid-off workers, they will put them to work turning out parts. The burden of unemployment will thus be passed along to the smaller businesses, and labor as a whole will have made no real gain.

All these arguments seem to add up to a fairly conclusive case against the guaranteed annual wage, desirable though the concept may appear. They are not arguments against higher wages where these are justified in profitable industry. Nor, of course, are they arguments against unemployment insurance, which is necessary for the protection of society as well as the individual. But the essence of the guaranteed wage plan is that the worker shall retain the same level of income whether working or not. It has yet to be proved that our present productivity could support such a luxury without an automatic and sharp increase in prices. More likely it must await the push-button, atomic-powered world of the future.

In the meantime, a more plausible approach to the problem of sustained employment appears to lie in encouraging management to expand existing industries and develop new ones by keeping itself free of excessive restrictions and commitments. Allied with this are Ottawa's current round-table discussions on methods of arranging public and private construction work so that it can be spread through the four seasons, and the general governmental policy of levelling out wherever possible, the ups and downs of the economic cycle.

A Traffic Safety Body

EVERY PERSON WHO DRIVES a car—in fact every person who sets foot on the street—has a direct and personal interest in traffic safety. No one who can read is ignorant of the heavy toll in life and property caused by car accidents.

Yet when efforts were made here last week to establish a traffic and safety council for the Greater Victoria region the response was disappointingly apathetic. Half the local groups invited to attend, an organizational meeting—and they included some of the most energetic bodies in the city—stayed away. Chief John Blackstock, probably a little awkward in his phrasing, attributed the difficulties in establishing a safety association to lack of cohesion among those groups which profess vital interest in the subject. The consensus of the meeting seemed to be that a traffic and safety association was an excellent idea, and what's to be done about it.

There are various agencies now active which make traffic safety an operative principle. Starting with the young, the Kiwanis Club sponsors its school patrols, where children are encouraged not only to observe the law and the rules of the road, but to exercise caution over and above the legal requirements. The drivers' education department of the provincial motor vehicle branch has conducted and is conducting an energetic campaign to increase safety on the road. The Lower Island Traffic and Safety Association, with the active collaboration of the Colwood RCMP detachment, has done excellent work among truckers. Individual concerns which operate fleets of cars and trucks have established high safety records by special attention to drivers.

Yet these agencies—and semi-public bodies concerned with the subject—did not, apparently, advance the safety council idea very far at the initial meeting.

Perhaps the individual groups are chiefly interested in looking after their own business in the safety field. Perhaps there is no need for a broader organization. Yet it would seem that the natural public interest in the subject—and it can be a question of life or death—ought to lead to some concerted effort.

The matter needs re-examination, probably by a small but influential committee from active agencies within this community.

Something To Be Avoided

SOME INDICATION OF THE havoc that would be wrought in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head area if the city's Finnerty Road property were allowed to become an air park for private planes, may be seen in the latest decision of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

That body, which administers the National Housing Act, providing low-cost loans for home builders, has frozen loans within a one-mile radius of all Canadian airports. In the case of Gordon Head, this would include all of Queenswood Drive and Arbutus Road on the north; Gordon Head Road on the west; Mount Tolmie and land extending nearly to Lansdowne Road on the south, including half of Uplands; and all of the Cadboro Bay area on the east.

These bounds encompass at least half a dozen new subdivisions and multi-building projects, including the planned 700-home subdivision east of Mount Tolmie.

The Central Mortgage freeze is now in effect and will continue until a permanent policy on such building is decided. It furnishes a realistic hint of the hazards to property values within a mile of the noise and danger of a landing field. Applied to Saanich, it suggests the likely effect on existing homes and future projects, if an airport were established in the midst of one of the finest residential building districts on the outskirts of the city.

Recognizing Island Talent

THE WASHINGTON STATE Press Club has awarded top honors to Mr. R. M. Patterson of Shoal Harbor Road, Sidney, for the best autobiographical book of 1954 written by a Pacific Northwest author. Earlier reviews had indicated the high calibre of his "Dangerous River," a graphic presentation of experiences in the South Nahanni River country.

The distinction is regional, but it is of unusual significance that another Island man has been singled out from a wide and international field of competent writers. Readers of the book will, of course, recognize the merit on which the judges based their decision.

The occasion draws attention once again to the number of first-class writers now living in Victoria and on Vancouver Island. It is noteworthy that the Washington Press Club also gave honorable mention to Roderick Haig-Brown in the section for magazine action writing. Mr. Haig-Brown has, of course, won international recognition.

At a time when Canada is showing an increased interest in the literary arts, it is gratifying to find so many highly competent craftsmen in this part of the nation.

HOW hard it is to strike a happy medium. I am not referring to the comparatively easy task of walking into a sence and slapping the woman who is in a trance . . . the medium through whom the spooks are talking such trivial and even meaningless rubbish. It is a very good plan to strike her and get her out of her trance before she says something she may be sorry for. No, no—I am speaking about the good old middle of the road . . . the spirit of compromise that has brought us all our virtues, and very likely all our faults as well.

Brock

For example, just where does one strike the happy medium between the vulgar fellow who uses the wrong word for everything—to the great discomfort of his hearers, and the agonizing pedant who uses far too correct a word for everything? Striking the happy medium may sound dull, but striking the happy pedant is a sport worth considering. Yet how can you hit a man for being right? It is all very frustrating.

AMONG pedants, surely the most harmless are those who are aware of the correct nouns of assemblage. The chaps who know that you speak of a pride of lions; not a bunch of lions, or a wispy of snipe rather than a flock. And within reasonable limits, this inoffensive chap is not only within his rights but is to be commended and given a gold star or two. We can't have people talking about a school of lions or a pack of snipe. That way madness lies.

Yes, but if you give these innocents an inch they give you hell. Before you know it, they are telling you that you must never, never, never mention a flight or a flock of curlews . . . it is a herd of curlews. And they are correct, according to the art or science of pedantry, but they are also damned silly. As far as the really fanciful nouns, such as a charm of finches or a murmuration of starlings or an exaltation (heaven forgive us) of larks . . . why, these are correct among bird-lovers and pedant-lovers and lovers of cuteness.

BUT in a language that takes itself seriously, will cuteness do? I think not. Cuteness and archness and whimsy . . . these must be kept out of English at any price. To the pigs with them. And I don't mean a snortle of pigs or a ramage of pigs or a dirtle of pigs, or even a harmless mess of pigs. I just mean a good old bunch of plain pigs.

When you mentioned the very word "professor," the painter Cezanne got so ill he would leave the table. "I have little or no use for the man Cezanne, as distinguished from the painter Cezanne. He was an animal. Because he was also Cezanne, he was responsible for the comparatively modern and wholly silly theory that anyone who acts like an animal is also a Cezanne . . . that it is an act of genius to be instinctive (as if most third-raters could be anything else!). But this divine idiot, this peasant-animal, this brute of an ox, he was quite right about professors in the sense that we are discussing the word-men here.

I HAVE discovered one good way to put the professor in his place, and the cute word-woman in her place too. When they relish technical terms, for everyday things and get superior about it. That way is to be far worse than they are themselves. Talk them right out of the picture and leave them clambering round the frame. For example, I once had some words with a sportsman about curlews and he got a little knowledgeable at me until I was compelled to inform him that one doesn't "carve" a curlew at all. No indeed. One "untaches" it. (I am not making this up. It is, unhappily, only too true.)

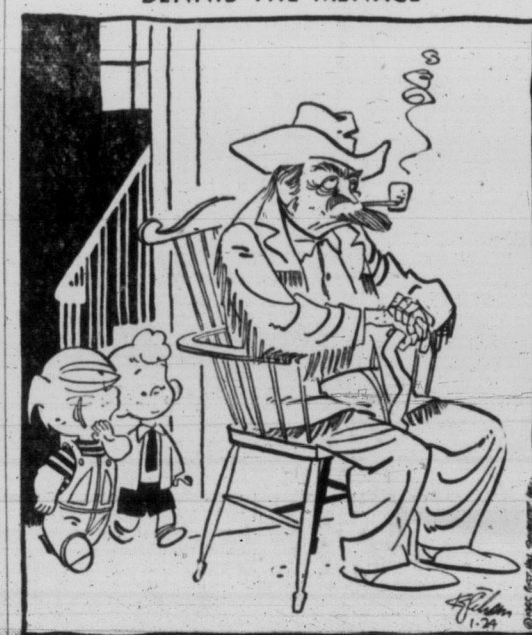

WHEN giving dinner to a pedant, it should be easy to serve salmon or trout. Very well, then. Tell him you do not carve a salmon. You chop a salmon. But that is nothing compared with what you do to a trout. You culpine a trout, so help me. If things can get any worse than that, I don't want to hear about them. But this is the comforting thing: neither does the pedant. You can drive him crazy with this sort of stuff. Drive him there and leave him there and go home by yourself in beautiful peace. I once had a long list of such ghastly terms, pinched from somebody who pinched them from a work called "The Accomplish Cook" (about 1680). It is lucky for you I have lost the list. But it is even luckier for my friends who like talking about a congregation of plovers. Or a display of sticklers.

MORE CUTENESS

I WAS flicking through some photographs of children, and a little girl was helping me. She said she thought some of the pictures were pretty good. She said she bet an editor and his readers would welcome them. I said that quite apart from their technical faults, the pictures showed children as grave and dignified little creatures, worthy of a certain respect. What most readers wanted (or so it seemed to me in my more gloomy moments) was cute children doing cute things. Children as imagined by some old auntie of a grand-mother (if I may so express myself).

The little girl agreed heartily, and with some contempt. "Yeah," she said, "what people want is pictures of kids licking the road."

ENOUGH TO EAT

A feature in your editorial columns the other day dealt with the perennial problem in what was termed "the global race between population and the food supply."

"This situation, frankly, is beyond this reader's experience or economic reach, for comment; especially remembering the warning adage that 'a little knowledge is a dangerous thing'."

Nonetheless, I feel the urge to wheel-in to the spotlight a brace of thoughtful references to this vital theme, by the experts who built "The Road to Abundance," and which I ran across in my recent reading. I thought they might be considered newsworthy, and am sure they can speak for themselves: (a)—"Industry goes on producing, winter or summer, rain or shine, but agriculture can never be sure its whole product will not be destroyed by unfavorable weather."

As long as we had no source of food but agriculture, there was no point of comparing industry and farming. But this is no longer the case. The time has come when chemistry can take over from agriculture the whole task of food production; and (b)—"Once the industrial manufacture of carbohydrates, fats, and proteins is achieved, the bondage that chains mankind to agriculture will be broken. It will be the greatest revolution in history, since man learned to make fire. The surface of our earth will be freed from dedication to food production. Crowded cities will disappear, and the earth will be transformed. Hunger, food shortages, and overpopulation will be relics of a barbaric past. Freedom from want and freedom from fear will become real. How soon the day comes depends entirely on our willingness to give chemistry its chance. Let's hope we do it before world famine makes us do it." (From "Enough to Eat for Everybody," in The Catholic Digest).

Somehow, I get the impression that this achievement might build more problems than it would solve; but it vividly reminded me of the philosopher's thought: "We think our civilization is at its meridian; whereas we are yet only at the cock-crowing, and the morning star"—(Sage of Concord, in 1841).

"GREEN REVOLUTION".

NOT DUCKING A FIGHT

Mr. Longpre suggests, in reply to my last letter, that as a newcomer to Canada I should refrain from criticizing our good American neighbors. May he take his own advice in this debate.

My letter may be construed as condemning MacCarthy, but Mr. Longpre's letter by implication condemns the United States Senate, as well as its specially appointed committee, headed by Senator Watkins. A committee may I say which was considered to be "Conservative of the Conservatives." Not to speak of the respected President Eisenhower whom MacCarthy, attacked in his dying fling before his sub-committee.

In any case, while I disagree with Mr. Longpre I admit his right to express his own views, while once again I object to the attitude which is the danger in North America today, and might be expressed in the words, "I don't like your views so you must stop expressing them."

As for his quotation from our respected Archbishop of British Columbia, I concur with the words quoted. But may I emphasize those words, "To oppose Marxian Communism by sound teaching and example of a better way." That is exactly what I am trying to do in each of my letters. We must not fight Communism by copying its methods of suppression and guilt by association.

Our Canadian democracy is based on the same way of tolerance and fair trial before a man's accusers, which has come from Britain. The disease called MacCarthyism is not native to Canada. It has crept in from the United States. Its day in the United States is almost gone, and our neighbors to the south, except for a minority, are returning to sanity.

Mr. Longpre assumes that because of my criticism of this minority in Victoria, I must be unhappy here. Whoever heard of an Irishman unhappy when there was a fight brewing? On the contrary, I am very happy here. I like the people and realize that only a small minority are suffering from MacCarthyism. But I am sorry to see that so few take a stand for true democracy.

WHY CONFORM?

Miss Ruth Enke's article "This eccentric Jewel" which appeared in "The Times" on Thursday last certainly deserves some kind of response to her expressed wish at the end but, to my mind, the proper answer to the number of questions that she asks would lie in a series of further questions.

For instance—Do we want to "come slowly and gently into line with the rest of North America"? Recently Vancouver has been coming into line with Chicago and other U.S. cities in a way that need hardly call for envy anywhere.

Do we want to be all made in the same pattern?

Why shouldn't we have both baseball and cricket in Victoria—after all they are both good games even if there are partisans on both sides who can't see it.

Does it matter if you hear German spoken on the street? In northern Alberta where I spent many years, you could hear English, French, German, Polish, Dutch, and various varieties of the Slav language.

Why should "a legend of quiet decay" be associated with England? This was never true at any time—certainly not now.

If our surrounding countryside is, to quite an extent, suggestive of the English landscape and if you do hear strongly marked English accents on the streets, do either of these things constitute a disgrace?

By all means let The City of Victoria have a character of her own. Let us not try to come into line with anywhere else but hold fast to and adopt those things which are really worth while and, to the best of our ability, avoid a great many things which ought not to be but nevertheless are rampant all through North America.

Our personality will develop and commercial prosperity will come with it.

Truce or Treaty

BY WALTER LIPPMANN, From Washington

WHETHER or not it was planned that way in Peking, there is a striking parallelism between the affairs of the flyers and the proposed U.S. security pact with Chiang's government in Formosa. Peking announced the conviction of the flyers at the end of November, which was just as the negotiations were being concluded in Formosa. Chou En-lai, in his talks with Mr. Hammarskjold, seems to have insisted that China felt itself threatened by the American support of Chiang who, of course, is bound to keep announcing his intentions to return to the mainland. While Chou was complaining to Mr. Hammarskjold about that, Mr. Dulles was showing the Senators an exchange of notes with Chiang's Foreign Minister, promising, though not in the clearest language, that Chiang will not invade the mainland without U.S. consent.

This is an interesting situation. Peking is worried that the United States, using Chiang as an instrument and a pretext, is preparing to attack Red China. Washington is worried that Chiang will deliberately entangle the United States against its will in a war with Red China.

U.N. OPPORTUNITY

Is it far-fetched to say that the situation is made to order for a constructive action by the United Nations? Why should the United Nations not move to bring about a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait, thus ending the last shooting war in Asia? Why should not the United Nations then become the guarantors of the principle that force shall not be used to determine the future of Formosa and the relationship of the two Chinese governments?

Such a truce under the auspices of the United Nations would reflect correctly the political and military realities. Red China is quite incapable of crossing a hundred miles of water and conquering Formosa. The United States is in fact quite incapable of putting Chiang back on the mainland and restoring him to power.

A sound agreement in international relations is one which registers, which states in clear language, the real situation. A truce in the Formosa Strait would register a real situation between Red China and the United States. It would change only the propaganda speeches from the other side about the liberation of Formosa by force and from this side about the liberation by force of the mainland.

The truce would in fact give international standing backed with the vast moral authority of the United Nations to the notes which Mr. Dulles has exchanged with Mr. Yen.

In Washington we do not doubt that Mr. Dulles means to hold Mr. Yen to the letter and the spirit of the engagement. We cannot expect Peking to believe that. We know that most of the uncommitted-Asian nations are far from sure that they believe it. And even in Washington many of us would feel better if the engagements not to entangle us in war rested on something broader and more solid than a private understanding between Taipei and Washington.

The advantages of this approach to the question would be so considerable that it might be well to explore it before ratifying the Formosa treaty. A truce under the United Nations would accomplish all the good that the treaty is designed for. It would avoid the disadvantages of the treaty.

I do not see how anyone can feel happy about a treaty of alliance which on the supreme question of whether the alliance would lead to war is so unclear that it has to be interpreted by diplomatic notes.

WEAK ALLIANCES

I for one am unhappy also about the indiscriminate signing of alliances with weak and vulnerable and not too dependable states. The right rule, it seems to me, is to give a guarantee to a state like Formosa, not to pretend that you are making an alliance with it. For the relationship is a one-way affair. We must defend Formosa. Formosa does not defend the United States. It is better not to make alliances except with countries that are in fact allies.

If, therefore, an international truce were to be negotiated in the Formosa Strait, we should be better off all around.

The strongest reason for skepticism about this proposal is that it looks so favorable to the United States that Red China may refuse it. This remains to be seen when and if the exchanges, which Mr. Hammarskjold has opened up so wisely and so well, develop into negotiations for the reduction of the danger of war in Asia.

EARLY EXPERIENCE

Contrary to a common opinion, we were taught to have a reverence for the facts of life, and there was nothing furtive about it. After all, one's own mother kept on having children. When she wasn't having one, the woman next door was, or someone in the street. And even a small boy couldn't shut his eyes to everything. A woman crying in a stall in the next room teaches a child a great deal. And it's important that one should experience these things as a child. To be sheltered from them until adolescence is frightful, for the child can suffer things which are agony to this adolescent.

—J. H. Watson, speaking of his childhood.

Lemon Cheese

SUDDENLY, this morning, the family demanded lemon cheese for supper. And, because I've forgotten the recipe, I've had to bring out my battered, bulging cook book.

The bulge is not just middle-aged spread. It comes, chiefly, from the cuttings I've poked between the pages during the last 17 years.

Some of the cuttings are recipes I've never copied in. But most are bits of prose and verse that have appealed to me. On a hectic day of cooking, I like to come upon them unawares and enjoy them all over again.

I'm fond, for instance, of this verse on a slip of cream paper clipped from "Punch":

"I devote my whole life to drudging for you," said the wife of a certain and uncertain man.

"All my days I work my fingers to the bone, merely for you."

Indeed I work my toes to the bone as well.

"You are seeing double, my dear," he replied. "Half your work is surely for yourself."

Not counting the tasks which are your own idea.

And incidentally, O spouse, sometimes when you think you are cross from overworking it occurs to me.

You are really overworking because you are cross.

Correct me if I am wrong. Indeed, correct me in any event, my love—I do not like novelty at my time of life."

I keep this because it reminds me of the way I used to carry on in years gone by. But not any more. Nowadays, my spirit, like my arches, it gone for good!

This second cutting has grown frayed and yellow in the years it's lain between "Hot Chocolate Pudding" and "Dried Apricot Jam." I like it all, but my favorite paragraph begins—

"(The wheat) grows and swells and waves in the wind. In the fallow land the fat white horses, three abreast, pull the harrows, making ready the ground for next year's crop."

There's simplicity, peace and contentment in that. And Canada.

My next two treasures were written by a clever, irreverent columnist. I keep the first for this expression, "Modern couples who live in glass houses and sit on steel stools."

The second stays with me for the lovely little crack about "Sons of Freedom and Daughters of Ignorance." (Now which Daughters could he possibly mean?)

I don't really need to keep this little slip with eight lines by Elisabeth Coatsworth written out in longhand. I know them by heart.

"What is once loved
You will find
Is always yours
From that day.
Take it home
In your mind
And nothing ever
Can take it away."

A couple of generations ago, I suppose, I might have made a "common-place book" of these, and copied them carefully out. But in this age of leisure, I never seem to have the time.

Heavens! The lemon cheese has curdled. I was writing this instead of "stirring constantly until the mixture thickens."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Light on Meniere's Disease

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A WHILE ago in this column I described Meniere's syndrome or group of symptoms. A person will get short spells of dizziness, nausea and perhaps vomiting, with some loss of hearing. Because the victims of this disease do not die of it, it has been hard for physicians to learn what happens to cause all the distress. Now comes Dr. Julius Lempert, of New York City, the man who devised the fenestration operation for deafness, to say that in 22 cases he found that the disease was due to the formation and rupture of tiny blisters on the inner wall of the membranous labyrinth—a part of the inner ear.

Dr. Lempert believes now that the cause may be a virus similar to that which causes a fever blister on the lip or a row of "shingles" on the chest wall. This sounds reasonable because attacks of Meniere's disease tend to come and go.

CLUB FEET

According to Dr. Wallace H. Cole, of St. Paul, when a child is born with club feet, correction of the deformity should start immediately, and should be kept up until the feet are in good shape.

Similarly, a child with congenital dislocation of the hips should be treated early, usually soon after the age of three years. A mother should suspect such disease in the hip joints if the child's legs seem stiff and cannot easily be spread apart.

TREATMENT FOR A STROKE

In a recent article, Dr. Morris B. Bender, of New York, said I think wisely, that right after a stroke the patient should not have a lot done to him, or much medicine given him. He or she should be allowed to rest, and should be given good nursing. As Dr. Bender says, with this, perhaps 80 per cent of the patients will walk again and 50 per cent will talk again.

Dr. Bender cannot see much sense in injecting the stellate nerve ganglion in the neck, and neither can I see any sense to it. At the Mayo Clinic a study of the method left the impression that it does no good. Theoretically, it cannot do any good because within a few minutes after the shut-off of circulation to a small area in the brain that area is dead and it cannot be rebuilt.

According to Dr. Russek, it helps to give cortisone right after a stroke—it will not help later. After the patient has recovered from the first shock, massage of weakened muscles, training in their use, training in getting out of bed and into a wheel chair, and training in speaking will all help much.

A spirit of hopefulness and encouragement can help. In many cases the family will have to adjust quickly to a certain amount of irritability or irascibility or change in character in the patient. They must forgive him because his brain has been injured; he is not just "cussed"; he is ill.

A SALT-POOR DIET

One of the world's leading experts on high blood pressure is Dr. Henry A. Schroeder, of St. Louis. He has written a splendid big book on the subject.

Recently, he told physicians gathered at a convention in Omaha that a salt-free diet is of little or no value in the treatment of high blood pressure. If the patient is taking Aprosoline he must be allowed salt in his diet.

It looks now as if I had lived long enough to see the fad of a salt-free diet for high blood pressure come and go three times: once about 1906, once about 1921, and now in 1954.

AFTER BAD NEWS

The other day I read the statement of a man who was once sentenced to be hanged. He said that for some 36 hours after the judge had pronounced the awful sentence, he had had little consciousness of his surroundings or of what anyone was saying to him. He was in a daze, with much of his brain thrown out of function.

This reminded me of the statement of some wise physician to the effect that when a doctor has to tell a man that he has tuberculosis and will have to go to a sanatorium for a year or so, it is best to dismiss the fellow and have him come back two or three days later. It is useless to go right on talking to him about details of choosing a sanatorium and arranging to go there, because he won't hear or retain a word. For a time his mind is thrown out of function.

A similar numbing of the nervous system comes often to a woman when her loved husband passes away. Only later, when the shock passes off, does she fully realize what has happened.

DELINQUENT BOYS, 100 in all, will arrive at new Brannan Lake Boys' Industrial School near Nanaimo

1,000 AT CEREMONY

New School Aims to Rehabilitate Youth

NANAIMO—The new $1,000,000 industrial school at Brannan Lake is designed to do for boys what their parents and community failed to do, Health Minister Eric Martin said Saturday at the official school opening.

"The intent of this school is the ultimate rehabilitation of those boys judged to be delinquent in their attitude toward society," he said.

"It is important that we realize that the stresses and strains of our modern society, together with a much neglected childhood, has resulted in the majority of these boys going astray."

COMMUNITY FAILS
"When people ask why the government must spend money to provide facilities such as this school, the answer is the same—the government must do this because the parents and their community have failed," he said.

"These quarters are remedial in design," Mr. Martin continued, "but the parents of each community should be attempting to provide preventative facilities. I hope that the future years will see this come about, and also the subsequent decline in the need for schools such as this."

This would make a good nursing home for the aged," he said.

The opening ceremony was held in the school auditorium. Ven. Archdeacon A. E. Hendy pronounced the invocation, and deputy welfare minister C. W. Lundy welcomed the visitors.

Mayor George Muir of Nanaimo offered the co-operation of the city council and citizens in making the school a success.

Waterworks In Brentwood Open Tuesday

BRENTWOOD—It will be a notable day on Tuesday of this week when the extension of the Brentwood waterworks system is scheduled to be activated for the residents of the Sea Drive area at the head of Saanich Inlet.

The work of laying the four-inch steel pipe, started four months ago, has been completed by contractor J. E. Chilcott and at the week-end workmen were engaged in cleaning up along the right-of-way.

The new water extension, linked with the main line at Marchants and Hagan, cuts through the proposed Hagan road extension to Wallace Drive, follows Gore Avenue to the new building subdivision, crosses to Elliott, extends north and south to Echo Inn at Benvenuto Avenue and Wallace, thence along to Sea Drive past the college chapel to terminate at the Roy Tidman property.

An additional reservoir tank has been built to guarantee sufficient pressure.

Cost of the completed extension is estimated at $30,000.

Street Light Petitions Due For Brentwood Circulation

BRENTWOOD—Petitions seeking assent of Brentwood district property owners for installation of a street lighting system here will be circulated shortly. It was stated today by Dr. Herman B. Wood, chairman of the Central Chamber of Commerce lighting committee.

Dr. Wood, with the other members of the committee, Victor J. Wood and Alexander Cuthbert, picked up the printed petitions from municipal clerk John W. Ismay on the weekend.

Circulation will begin as soon as organization of the canvassing committee has been completed. It is likely that property owners will be asked to sign the petition this week.

Total of 340 people on the tax roll will be contacted and a 75 per cent majority will be required to authorize the undertaking. The project will be put through under the local improvement plan.

The B.C. Electric has promised to put in the lighting system in short order, once approval has been given by the ratepayers.

If the scheme is endorsed, all the main thoroughfares will be adequately lighted by modern luminaires, similar to those installed at Sidney.

Legion Clubs Want Exemption From Looming Boost in Pub Fees

Canadian Legion zone council will meet Thursday to prepare a resolution seeking definition of whether or not municipalities may tax veterans' clubs as public houses.

Recent recommendation by Union of B.C. Municipalities led Esquimalt council to consider establishment of a heavy tax applicable to public houses as defined by the revised liquor act.

Canadian Legion clubs formerly classified as private organizations, and serving members beer only, have been instructed by provincial Legion command to redefine themselves as public houses.

Provincial command likely will be asked by zone council to seek clarification from the liquor control board.

J. E. Carey, Esquimalt councillor and member of the Legion, explained his club's position at the last meeting of council, and argued that it is still in effect a private club, and therefore not subject to municipal taxation.

Esquimalt has asked its solicitor to draw up a new by-law.

DECORATORS AT WORK IN SUBURB PUBS

A $50,000 renovation job has started at Half Way House and is expected to be completed within two months, co-owner John Puach announced today.

"We are trying to create the best atmosphere in town," he said.

Three decorators are at work and the new decor will be autumn colors. As well, installations of new flooring and carpets has started. Lighting will also be changed.

The establishment will remain open during renovation. Tudor House manager W. L. Gouge said $10,000 would be spent on redecoration this year, while a spokesman at the Gorge Hotel said a complete overhaul of that establishment was also in the planning stage.

The Buckingham, Que., youth was taken to the RCAF base for a check-up after he ended his playing at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, exactly 24 hours and five seconds after he started.

Doggedly thumping out classical and pop tunes and some of his own compositions, Bastien played past the mark of 21 hours, 15 minutes and 31 seconds which was set two months ago by an acquaintance, Andre Mathieu of Montreal.

At hospital Bastien was treated for finger bruises pronounced fit and then settled down for a deep and well-earned sleep.

Fernau Hall, Dance Expert, Due Home Soon

One of England's foremost ballet authorities, 41-year-old Fernau Hall, son of Magistrate Henry C. Hall and Mrs. Hall, arrives in New York Tuesday en route to Victoria for his first visit in 22 years.

He is not expected home immediately, and will likely spend some time in New York, Montreal and Toronto.

He is the author of two books on ballet, "Modern English Ballet" and the 250,000-word "An Anatomy of Ballet," published in 1953.

At University of British Columbia, Mr. Hall concentrated on theatre, and after travel in Europe began work as an actor and stage manager in London. Then he "trained" as a ballet dancer and began writing dance criticism.

He continued studies of ballet history during nearly six years with the British Army and after the war danced, lectured and worked on his latest book which took three years to prepare.

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's government dissolved the Diet (parliament) tonight and prepared to face the voters at a general election next month.

Hatoyama, a conservative, dissolved the Diet in accordance with an agreement he made with the Socialist parties when he took office just six weeks ago.

He had agreed to the early elections in return for Socialist support on forcing the resignation of former prime minister Shigeru Yoshida.

It was decided unofficially that the election will be Feb. 27.

D'AMOUR ELIMINATED FROM B.C. BRIER PLAY

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Three rinks from the Trail Curling Club and one from Nelson will represent the West Kootenay Zone in the B.C. Brier playdowns at the annual British Columbia Brier in Kamloops next month.

A dramatic comeback by veteran Milt Ryalls of Nelson Sunday night prevented the Trail club from sweeping the four events as he edged Pete McIntyre, 10-9, with his final rock.

A former B.C. champion, Ches Chesser, also gained a finals berth when he edged out clubmate and former Dominion champion Frency d'Amour, 7-6, in an extra end.

Chesser and Ryalls now join four-time B.C. champion Reg Stone and Scotty Ross as the four West Kootenay Zone representatives in the B.C. play-downs.

BLANKED BY FLYERS

Cougars Get Schedule Break

Edmonton 3, Victoria 0; New Westminster 1, Vancouver 0
Saskatoon 7, Calgary 5

The Victoria Cougars are back home this week, still in fourth place in the Western Hockey League, their most recent prairie road trip unpleasant to a point, but not wholly unproductive.

The Cougars finished off a four-game prairie trip Saturday night by absorbing a 3-0 shutout at the hands of the Edmonton Flyers, the second time in the trip the Cougars were blanked. All told, they picked up three points out of a possible eight.

Starting Wednesday with the New Westminster Royals, Cougars hit an easier part of the schedule, playing six of their next eight games at home.

With the help of the Royals, who blanked Vancouver Canucks, 1-0, Saturday night, the Cougars are still eight points ahead of Vancouver but the Canucks still hold those five important games in hand over Victoria.

Saskatoon Quakers outscored Calgary Stampede Saturday night 7-5 to prevent the third-place Stampede from gaining any ground on the Cougars.

A combination of Glen Hall and Norm Ullman made things miserable for the Cougars in Edmonton Saturday. Hall marking up his second shutout of the season and Ullman scoring two of his club's three goals.

By their victory, Edmonton stretched their season's advantage over the Cougars. Flyers have won five and tied one in the seven meetings between the two clubs. The Flyers have lost only once in their last 16 games.

QUAKERS MOVING
Making a loud noise from the league cellar, the high-flying but low-standing Quakers gave Calgary a red hot Saturday night, holding a 7-3 lead at one time. Left winger Ray Manson led the Quaker attack with three goals. Pat Lundy sniped a pair for Calgary.

The bitter front-office feud between Vancouver and New Westminster Royals continued to simmer but Ron Matthews ended the on-the-ice warfare with the only goal of the game half-way through the first period.

FIVE FOR LUKE
Big Lucien Dechene continued his domination over the Vancouver club. Saturday night's shutout was the fifth of the season for the Royals' goaltender and all five have been recorded against Vancouver.

Police entered the scene in the third period when Canucks' Harry Dick, the centre of bitter name calling between the clubs, tried to climb over the boards at a heckling fan. Dick has stated he is planning court action against Royals' manager Ken McKenzie, who was quoted as calling the Vancouver defence team "a dirty coward."

Beliveau Takes NHL Scoring Lead

(By The Canadian Press)

Jean Beliveau of Montreal has finally broken teammate Bernie Geoffrion's stranglehold on first place in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Beliveau picked up one goal and two assists during the week-end to move three points ahead of Geoffrion. Beliveau has 27 goals and 26 assists for 53 points. Geoffrion has 50 points on the same number of goals and 23 assists. The two players share the goals-scoring honors.

Maurice Richard assisted on three tallies as the Canadiens had a fat week-end at the expense of Chicago Black Hawks. Richard is in third place in the point parade with 48 points on 26 goals and 22 assists.

Bolt Repeats Golf Win

Leonard Eighth In San Diego Open

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (BUP)—His putting was off and his tee shots were bad, but terrible Tommy Bolt, the thunder-man of the fairways, picked up a cheque for $2,400 today for winning the $15,000 San Diego Open golf tournament for the second time in three years.

Despite the fact that he clipped 14 strokes from par as he fired a 274 for 72 holes, Bolt was dissatisfied with his game as he headed for the $15,000 Palm Springs, Calif., invitational starting on Thursday.

"I couldn't hit a good wood all during the tournament," he said after he had accomplished the victory by a two-stroke margin over Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C. "And my putting was very bad."

"But my irons were the best. I hit 16 greens in the final round when I got a 71: opening day when I had that 64, I hit every green."

Bolt, who says he is 36, although the official books list him as only 34, won this tournament in 1953 with the same 274 score. This time he had rounds of 64-67-72-71. In that crop of sharp-shooting were two eagles. Besides the $2,400 first-prize money, Bolt picked up $100 for low round the first day and $25 each for the eagles. Yesterday he went out in 33 (with an eagle and two birdies) and a bogey on the front nine) and then played it careful coming in for a 38.

"After I sank that putt on the sixth hole and went four under par, I knew I had it won," he said.

There were a lot of shot-makers who made a run at Bolt and his opening day 64. Paul McGuire, Wichita, Kan., had a 65 that day, but finished with a 285 total that was good for only $85.71. Next day, defending champion Gene Littler had a 66 and so did Stan Leonard of Vancouver, the Canadian PGA champion, but they faded, too. Littler finished seventh winning $700 and Leonard in tie for eighth, winning $513.33.

Carroll, Verley Pilfer Buttons

Laurie Carroll, tabbed as a bright "comer" and Gordon Verley, who has already arrived and been around the local golf scene for quite a spell, are the new holders of the city senior golf buttons.

Carroll and Verley became the third holders of the buttons in as many weeks Sunday when they scored a 3 and 2 victory over Bill Court and Laurie Kerr of Colwood. The losers had come by the buttons the previous Sunday, scoring a birdie-studded victory over Bob Morrison and Frank Serrogs.

The new button-holders were two up at the turn, won the 11th to go three up and terminated the match on the 16th. Carroll and Verley had best ball score of 66, three under par for the round. Court and Kerr had a 70.

Carroll was stiff to the pin with his approach shot on the first hole, dropping his putt for a birdie and a one hole lead. The second was halved in pars, the third in bogeys, the fourth in pars. Both Verley and Kerr holed long putts for a half on the fifth.

Verley stroked down another long putt to win the sixth with a birdie three but Kerr took the seventh with a par. Verley restored the two-up lead with a birdie two on the eighth. Verley was putting for another bird on the ninth but missed the four-footer and the hole was halved in pars.

After the 10th was halved in regulation figures, Carroll and Verley took the 11th and the next five holes were halved, the match ending on the 16th.

Toronto Skaters Take Fourth 'Pairs' Title

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Frances Dafee and Norris Bowden retained their senior pairs title Saturday night as the Canadian figure skating championships wound up at Varsity Arena here.

The Toronto couple, teamed for six years, skated "a brand new program" to take the title for the fourth consecutive year.

Carole Jane Pacha, 17, of Ottawa's Minto Club, increased her advantage in the free-skating event to take the Canadian senior ladies' single title. Earlier she placed third in the ladies' compulsory school figures.

Ann Johnston, 18, of the Toronto Skating Club, who placed first in figures, placed second in the singles after the free-skating competition. Joan Shippam, 16, of Calgary's Glencoe Club, finished third in the championships.

Vancouver City Defeats Scots

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Clifford rapped in three goals to lead Vancouver City to a 5-3 victory over St. Andrews in Pacific Coast League soccer play Saturday.

The win broke a three-way tie and allowed City to take over undisputed possession of second place.

City took a 2-0 lead at the half on goals by Tom McHugh and Clifford.

When play resumed Clifford banged in two more goals within 10 minutes before John Swan got one back for St. Andrews. Stu Crossan drove home another for St. Andrews and Swan made it 4-3 on a successful penalty shot.

Tom McHugh booted another goal for City with five minutes of play remaining.

CALIFORNIA CAGERS TO PLAY TOTEMS HERE

The California State High School all-stars will be here Saturday, Feb. 5, to play the Vic High Totems in what will probably be one of the hottest prep exhibition basketball contests of the year.

In the past, the American team has defeated senior A men's teams in the province.

The all-stars are presently touring the coast. Before leaving the Island, the California club will play at Alberni on Feb. 7.

Butlers Trip Scots; Heaneys, Bays Win

Butler Brothers kept the flame under their Oliver Cup hopes burning Sunday with a well-merited 3-0 victory over Canadian Scottish at Lower Beacon Hill Park.

Butlers picked up a 1-0 lead in the first half while going uphill and then added two more unanswered goals in the second half when they had the advantage of the slope.

Bill Abbott gave Butlers the lead they needed to win after 19 seconds, getting the ball eight yards in front of the net and driving a hard shot in off the post.

George Robbins threaded the ball through a knot of players for the second goal after 25 minutes of the second half and Gordy Deacon ended the scoring at the 37 minute mark, tapping in a cross from point-blank range.

During the last few minutes of the game, in which Butlers were always faster on the ball than the short-passing Scots, the winners put on terrific pressure and barely missed adding to their total.

TILLICUMS TRIUMPH
In Saturday's Oliver Cup game, Tillicums came through with their third straight series victory, nipping Wood Motors, 2-1 at Beacon Hill.

Lyle Hollingsworth and Don Paulin gave Tillicums a two-goal lead in the first half and tremendous work by Al Davies in the Tillicum nets kept the pressing Motormen from hitting the scoreboard. Archie Taylor finally beat Davies in the second half, scoring Wood Motors' lone goal when his 15-yard drive carried into the net off a Tillicum defender.

First division action saw Heaneys stretch their hefty first-place lead to 11 points by downing second-place Esquimalt 3-2 on Saturday. On Sunday, JBAA won a ragged match from Vic Wests, 2-1, at Ileywood Avenue.

In Sunday's game, JBAA had a 2-0 lead at half-time on goals by Don McGee and Fuzz Blair. George Brown saved Wests from the embarrassment of a shutout, scoring their only goal in the second half.

On Saturday, Heaneys scored their 13th victory in 16 games, scoring three goals in the second half after spotting Esquimalt a 1-0 lead in the first half. Jack Blevins gave Esquimalt the jump in the first half as Esquimalt made the most of a following wind. Heaneys took just seven minutes of the second half to tie it up, Stan Wiseman scoring, but Esquimalt went ahead again when Denny Shubrooke blasted in a loose ball from directly in front of the nets.

Crafty Annie Ferguson, Heaneys' dependable veteran, sank Esquimalt's hopes, scoring the squaring tie on a neat header and then getting the winner after Docker goalie Gene Pednault had made a series of fine saves.

Springfield Gains
BY THE CANADIAN PRESS
Rightwinger Jim Anderson sparked Springfield Indians to victory over Providence Reds in an American Hockey League game Sunday night, firing three goals in the Indians' 7-4 victory.

The triumph left Springfield two points back of the first-place Pittsburgh Hornets.

Tynan scored 18 points on four tries and three converts as he led Vancouver St. George's A team to a whopping 21-0 victory over Venture A squad.

But Venture got a split in the day's activity when their B squad rolled to a 16-6 win over the St. George's second squad.

Scorers for Venture B were Glen Christenson, Willie Little, Jim Todd and Wei Jardine. Ken Sumanik added a pair of converts.

In an interclub game at Macdonald Park, JBAA's first division squad scored a top-sided 23-6 victory over the second division JBAA team.

George Wilson, Keitn MacDonald and Dave Cooke each scored a pair of tries for the first division club, while Harry Turner scored one try, and Pete Turko kicked a convert. Scorers for the second division team were Gordy Gordienko and John Whan.

Victoria College opened the second half of the second division schedule on a successful note, defeating a short-handed Oak Bay Wanderers club 15-0.

Future Teachers Know Their Basketball Too

Normal School Captures Times Trophy

Basketball in the schools of the near future appears to be in safe hands if the present crop of Provincial Normal School students has anything to do with it.

The future teachers covered themselves in glory Saturday night in the final of the third annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament at Victoria High School gym. Not only did Normal School whip the powerful Vic High Totems, 84-69, to win the Times Trophy, but also made off with the Most Valuable Player award and took three positions on the tournament all-star team.

Hustling Dave Williamson was the most brilliant member of a brilliant Normal School team in the final. A former member of the Vancouver Island champion Alberni High School Chiefs and later, a member of the senior A Alberni Athletics, Williamson scored 29 points to help crush Totems, and was named the most valuable player. In addition, Williamson was named to a guard position on the all-star team. Others named to the select team were Don Hill and Al Enoswell of Normal School and Tommy English and Bob Tomlinson of Totems.

CORBETT HOT
In the consolation final, Gary Corbett scored 20 points, 15 in the second half, to lead Victoria College Vikings to a 58-45 victory over Royal Roads. Victory gave Vikings third place, behind Totems, while Royal Roads finished fourth.

Totems jumped into a 21-19 lead in the first quarter but the smooth-working Normal squad were ahead 43-37 at the half. Totems started a comeback in the third quarter but Williamson, scoring 14 points in the fourth-quarter, cemented the victory for Normal. Hill added 20 points for the winners.

Waldo Skilling was high for Totems with 17 points. Ruthford scored 16 and English sniped 12.

College staged a great comeback for their victory, overcoming a 16-0 deficit after the first quarter. Corbett's 20 points led the winners and Bill Oldham scored 15. Ron Binnie of Royal Roads also scored 20 points.

Line-ups follow:

Birdmen Blank Cadets; Pearson Scores Four
Eagles jumped into undisputed possession of first place in division I of the Junior and Juvenile Football Association Sunday by blanking Fifth Regiment 6-0 at Windsor Park.

High scoring Jim Pearson came through with four goals in the first half, while Rus West and Bud Shipley added singletons in the second half.

Belmont Boys' Club lost by default to Mic Macs. In an exhibition game Mic Macs defeated a team made up from Belmont, Fifth Regiment and other players 2-0, on a pair of goals by Bud McClaren.

ANAF Vets pulled into a tie with Eagles by beating the second division squad 4-1. Vets were held to one goal in the first half but opened up in the second half, Ken and Gary Leibel, Lance Rutherford and Otto Chueden shared scoring honors for the winners. Gordy Cook was the marksman for the Eagles.

First-half champion Eagles took the lead in Division III Saturday after dropping Canadian Scottish 2-0 on a penalty-shot goal, and a second-half tally by Jim Galbraith.

In other games played Saturday Sidney won by default from Victoria West Division IV, Canadian Scottish struggled to a 1-1 tie with fourth division Eagles, and Combines of Division V battled to a 2-2 tie with first-half champion Eagles.

Daryl McIntyre scored for the Eagles in Division IV and Ron Gibson added the equalizer for the Scots.

Division V scorers were Doug Fieldhouse and Hal Pitton, who evened up the two tallies by Combines' Paul Stebeck.

WIFU President
CALGARY (CP) — Jack Rowand of Winnipeg was elected president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union at the league's annual meeting Sunday. He succeeds Cec R. Chester of Calgary.

Karl Slocumb of Winnipeg became first vice-president. Other vice-presidents are Bob Cramer, Regina; Ken Montgomery, Edmonton; D. B. McLaws, Calgary, and Don MacKenzie, Vancouver.

In the armed forces to the club who last had them under contract.

This, contended one delegate, was inserted solely for the benefit of Edmonton Eskimos, who lost all-star halfback Billy Vesels to the U.S. army draft after the 1953 season.

GREY CUP PROPOSAL
The Grey Cup game, if the WIFU's proposal to the CRU is accepted, would be played alternately in the east and west, beginning with Vancouver in 1955.

Chief among the WIFU rule-change recommendations was one that 10 yards of blocking beyond the line of scrimmage be allowed for the entire offensive team, with backfield motion still permitted.

It also asked that penalties for roughing on converts be applied to the first play on the following scrimmage rather than on the kickoff, and that six points be allowed for a touchdown and one for a convert.

YORK HONORED
ARCADIA, Calif. (UP)—Jockey Ray York, winner of three $100,000-added stakes last season and regular rider of Determine, has been named to receive the sixth annual George Woolf memorial award.

Clippers Extend Home Ice Record

The home winning streak of Nanaimo Clippers is still safe as money in the bank. Clippers protected their first-place investment in the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League and maintained their home undefeated skein with a 5-2 victory over last place Drake Hotel at Nanaimo Civic Arena.

There are no games in Victoria tonight, the arena being taken over for basketball, but teams will resume the league schedule Friday night at Memorial Arena. Drakes will meet C & C Taxi in the first game at 7:30 with Navy and Nanaimo tangling in the feature at 9.

The fact that Clippers won by no more than three goals was due to the clutch goal-tending of Don Hamilton, who made 41 saves in a busy evening. Hamilton, though the losing goalie, was probably the brightest star of the game.

Clippers took a 2-1 lead in the first period, added two unanswered goals in the second period and matched Drakes' second goal in the final period.

Les Corby and Johnny Makowski scored for Drakes with Earl Robinson, Bud Dumont, Joe Zuback, Mel Godeau and Don Smith pulling the trigger for Clippers.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Well, well, the Chamber of Commerce chappies have up and done it again.

This time, they've a really corking idea. They want our policemen to dress up in Bobby Helms, as a tourist attraction, y'know.

A bit of Old English atmosphere, they say, is just what the doctor ordered.

Ripping idea, what? But hardly goes far enough do you think? Rather not! Policemen are allowed to dress up, why not rest of the citizens, eh? Good for the goose, good for the gander. Noblesse oblige, an eye for an eye, and all that. Right? Right!

You ask, who else should be allowed to dress up? Glad you asked, old boy. Rally round, lend an ear.

Police magistrates, for one. Can't let jolly old tourist hauled in by bobby, face ordinary magistrate. Must dress magistrate up in perwig. Call him "beak." Have him fine tourist in pounds, shilling and pence.

Real atmosphere of Old England, you know.

Oh yes! Almost forgot. The bobbies themselves. Must learn how to say "ere, now, what's goin' on 'ere?" and "move along, HIF you please." No more of this "break it up, chums." Eh?

Oh, simply oodles and oodles of people should dress up for the tourists. Costermongers and barter men, now. Just the thing. Add that touch of, ah, er you know? I knew you would.

And beefeaters. Can't go opening parliament or legislature or what-is-it without a beefeater. Even with beef at these prices, it's all in a good cause, eh? Ha ha.

Bound to have lots of volunteers to dress up as beefeaters. You agree? Good.

And sailors, now. This place simply crawling with sailors. But not dressed right. No pigtails. Silly, eh? What's little bit of OLD England without sailors in pigtails?

I mean to say, is Victoria OLD England or is Victoria not OLD England? What?

Glad you see eye to eye with me, old boy. So. Sailors with pigtails, agreed. Change name of Beacon Hill to "Yde Park." Agreed? With citizens dressed up as soapbox orators. Agreed? Hansom cabs instead of nasty 1955 taxis. Agreed? Tear up streets, fill in with mud... this is OLD England, remember. Agreed?

Oh, dear. Must run along now. Glad you agree with me, and hope you'll enjoy your little bit of Old England.

Where am I going? Really, Old Boy, can't you guess? To England. Pip pip.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

City Court of Revision for 1955 for purposes of hearing objections under the Local Improvement Act, sat at city hall this morning. Only three persons asked adjournments. Presiding were Alderman Robert McMillan, M. H. Mooney, and J. D. Smith. Also named to the court but on vacations are Ald. W. F. Pinfold and Ald. Arthur Doyell.

In city police court today Walter Lewis Ford, 1121 Blanshard was fined $10 on a charge of failure to give the right of way to a pedestrian in a crosswalk.

William Bouwman, 1205 May Street, was fined $35 in city police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving.

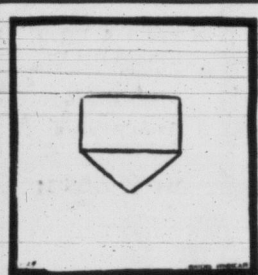

Court was told he was involved in an accident Jan. 14 at Cook and Pandora.

Magistrate H. C. Hall suspended his license.

Charge of obtaining money by false pretenses against J. Swan and W. J. Rutherford, 1046 View Street, was dismissed today in city police court.

The charge involved a worthless cheque for $20.

DROODLES

I showed this Droodle to Mrs. Goonsgarten, my landlady, who is my severest critic, and she said, the same thing she always says: "Where's the big rent?" I haven't paid the rent because for two months now the apartment has been a bedlam of noise—ever since Mrs. Goonsgarten fell in love with Ezio Pinza and decided to take singing lessons so she could get a job as his leading lady and meet him. The noise is deafening because Mrs. G. really has a wonderful set of pipes. She has a terrible voice, but a wonderful set of pipes: meerschaums, corn cobs, hookahs—all types. (She smokes a corn cob mostly because everyone says it brings out her resemblance to General McArthur.)

John Alexander Galloway, 454 George Road East, was fined $35 today in city police court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

At left is Staff Sergeant George Stone, London, Eng., for two years a trombonist with the Pats. Centre is WO2 Ray Eberts, London, Ont., a four-month bass horn player with PPCLI and formerly 16-years with Royal Canadian Regiment Band. His bass was too big for the picture so he substituted with the French horn. Sergeant John Sterken, at right, hails from The Hague, Holland, and has played cornet for two years in the Pats' band. Princess Pats' Band Here for House Opening

By AR KENT

Members of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry band form a veritable United Nations.

Members are Canadian, Dutch, English, Scottish and what-have-you, many having been brought from Europe on a special enlistment scheme for bandmen.

The regimental band, its forerunner one of the oldest in the Canadian army, is in Victoria for the opening of the B.C. Legislature Tuesday.

Director, Captain F. M. McLeod, originally from Vancouver, has been with the band two years, about the same length of time as many of the Europeans.

POST-WAR SHORTAGE

He said the army faced a shortage of bandmen following the war, and finding it necessary to form five or six new bands annually to keep pace with expansion, offered European musicians the chance to play for Canada.

Almost a third of the PPCLI band is composed of Dutchmen. Full complement is 55 men, but only 42 made the trip to Victoria from Currie Barracks, Calgary, because of a sudden outbreak of flu.

FIRST OPENING

The band has played in Victoria on several other occasions over the past few years, but this will be its first Legislative opening.

Next month it will attend the opening of Alberta's Legislature.

A big crowd heard the band in concert Sunday afternoon at the Bay Street Armoury, and another performance will be given for the public this evening at 7:30 in the Radar Building at Work Point.

Not Guilty Plea Entered in Retaining Charge

Clifford Foot, 3131 Delta Street, elected trial in city police court today and pleaded not guilty to a charge of retaining six radios and seven electric razors over $25 value, property of Northern Electric Co. Ltd., 1950 Blanshard.

He was one of three suspects arrested following a Jan. 14 burglary at the city electric store.

Foot was remanded to Feb. 1 for trial.

Vernon Charles Reid, 32, 1619 Quadra, pleaded guilty last Friday to a charge of breaking and entering and theft from the wholesale electrical company.

Joseph Fraser, 19, also of 1619 Quadra, pleaded guilty to retaining three radios and two electric shavers over $25 value, property of Northern Electric Co. Ltd.

They will appear again in city police court Wednesday.

Moir Waters Accepts Call From Ontario

Rev. Moir A. J. Waters, minister of First United Church, announced to the church session Friday night and to the congregation Sunday morning that, subject to the approval of the Victoria presbytery, he will accept a call from Port Nelson United Church in Ontario.

Mr. Waters will not be leaving his present charge until the end of June. He will also complete his term of office as president of the B.C. conference of the church when he presides over its annual session at Shaughnessy Heights—United Church, Vancouver, in May.

Mr. Waters will complete six and one-half years as minister of First United in June. The present membership of the church is just over 2,000.

His new charge is located in a rapidly growing residential suburb of Hamilton, Ont. The congregation is in its third year and is worshipping in the auditorium, the first unit of its building project. It is planned to complete the church proper within two to three years. Present membership is just over 500.

Mr. Waters flew down to Ontario a few weeks ago and conducted the Sunday services at Port Nelson. Call was extended after a congregational meeting Thursday.

HOUSE SPEAKERS

W. N. Chant, Social Credit, Victoria, will move the reply to the Speech From the Throne Wednesday afternoon. Second will be Cyril Sheford, Social Credit, Omineca.

Opposition—Leader Arnold Webster and Liberal Leader Arthur Laing are scheduled to speak Thursday afternoon.

Ottawa Action Key to B.C. Aid For Bridge Here

Premier Leaves Door Open For Point Ellice Assistance

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today raised hopes for provincial aid for a new Point Ellice Bridge, but he indicated that civic authorities should first approach Ottawa for assistance.

The premier said he would "be very glad to discuss" financing of the new bridge with civic officials in Victoria "after they come back from Ottawa."

"Surely they don't want a toll bridge," he said when asked if the government's Toll Bridges and Highways Authority would consider taking over the crossing.

"Also today, Social Credit M.L.A. Mrs. Lydia Arsenault urged three levels of government, federal, provincial and municipal, contribute funds for the bridge.

"I think the three governments should share responsibility—each government has a responsibility, but the federal government should carry the big share." She suggested cost be split on a 60-20-20 basis.

Motorcyclists Tackle Road To Bear Creek

A little snow in melting condition and fog in the higher regions were the only difficulties encountered by Victoria Motorcycle Club members in a ride to Bear Creek Sunday.

Travelling over the rugged Bear Creek Road, 20 members of the club had little trouble reaching the end of the road and the beginning of the logging railway leading to Port Renfrew.

The group left Victoria at 10 a.m. and made good time both ways.

SEVEN-DAY CELEBRATION

'Year of the Sheep' Begins in Chinatown

Victoria's Chinese community welcomed today their 4,633rd new year, known as the "Year of the Sheep," according to the ancient Chinese lunar calendar.

Members of the Chinese settlement will celebrate the event tonight with private parties and family dinners. Celebrations will continue for seven days, winding up with a big banquet. The New York celebrations are charted by an agricultural calendar based on both the solar and lunar reckoning. The Chinese calendar was set up in the reign of Huang Ti, the first emperor of the ancient land.

Immediately after the seven-day celebrations, the Chinese will observe the coming of spring—a big event for the community. Clubs will hold numerous banquets for members of the settlement.

$500,000 Forest Lab Plan Here

Ottawa Project for Tree Research Work

Construction of a $500,000 forest biology laboratory is planned for Greater Victoria, it was learned today from the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Parliament is expected this week to approve in its estimates a sum of money to purchase the land for the large-scale project, to be undertaken within the next few years.

The laboratory will be the largest of its kind in the Dominion and will serve the entire province.

SAANICH SITE

While site for the building has not yet been chosen, it is expected to be located somewhere in Saanich.

Five acres of land are required.

A federal official said as soon as the land is purchased plans will be drawn up for the building.

The majority of forest biology technicians are at present located in the new post office on Government Street. The present offices, however, are not considered adequate to carry out certain types of experiments.

It was pointed out that the forest branch up to now has had to rent greenhouses and to set up sub-stations on the outskirts of the city to carry out some of its experiments, the proposed lab would allow co-ordination all the work of the department.

PERMANENT LAB

"The new building would be for all time," said the official. "At least 40 technicians would be working in the building on forest research work against diseases and insects."

The federal government, he pointed out, had become increasingly aware of the need to increase its forest biology service to fight widespread tree diseases and insects which were destroying billions of board feet of timber each year. The new building was part of a long-range plan to safeguard the forest industry, he said.

Car, Motorbike Thefts Charged To Juveniles

City police have charged three juveniles in connection with recent theft of five cars and two motorcycles.

One of the youths is believed to have been the driver of a stolen car Saturday night which collided with three parked vehicles on Rockland Avenue.

The car crashed into vehicles owned by Dr. Herman B. Wood, Beach Drive, Brentwood; Kenneth R. Seaman, 5050 Lockhaven Drive, and James Blowers, 440 Victoria Avenue.

Owner of the stolen car is Raymond G. Hanson, 1905 Mayfair.

Damage to all vehicles was "medium."

Hit Windshield, Passenger Hurt In Car Accident

Thrown into the windshield of a car in which he was a passenger, Edward Dempster, 36, of 25 Marlborough Street, suffered severe head and face lacerations in a Dallas Road accident Sunday.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at about 7 p.m. where his condition today was "fair."

The accident occurred near Clover Point when a car driven by George H. Millard, 2002 Carlick, hit a cement "island" at the Clover Point cutoff from Dallas.

Four other persons escaped with minor injuries in other week-end traffic accidents.

They are: Mrs. Connie Tooby, Howard Tooby, 18-month-old Janice Tooby, in one accident; and Frances Christian, 81, in another accident.

NEW POTENTATE of Gizah Shrine Temple for 1955 is Jack M. Streight, New Westminster lawyer, who will install officers of the Victoria Shrine Club at Club Sirocco this Friday.

Mr. Streight on Saturday was chosen in Vancouver to head 2,000 Shriners in B.C. and Yukon during the ensuing year. At Victoria ceremony, to take form of dinner and dance, he will install the following officers: Noble Charles F. Savage, Noble William Clark and Noble Bruce B. Tingley. Retiring president of local Shriners is Ted Porter.

Alex Matthew Deputy Speaker

Alex Matthew (S.C. Vancouver Centre) will fill the post of deputy speaker of the Legislature again this session, it was learned today.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—How old is the Fiddle Reef light, off Oak Bay? D.L.M.

A.—It was established in 1898. It antedates the Trial Island Light, which has operated since Aug. 18, 1906.

Q.—In what year was the Fairbridge Farm School on this island opened, and by whom? Did it take in children from the Dr. Barnardo Homes in England? Is the farm still running? Mrs. M.D. McC.

A.—The Prince of Wales Fairbridge Farm School was opened in 1935 and closed in 1949, when it became part of the B.C. public school system, the farm later being leased by the C.E.R. The Fairbridge Foundation, a large organization in England which founded and owned the school, chose the boys and girls to be trained. Existing records do not disclose if any Barnardo boys were among those sent to this island.

EVEN IF FILION SAYS WE'RE DEAD—WE WON'T LIE DOWN

By TONY DICKASON

Publisher Gifford Filion's view of Victoria in which people of great vintage creak around in hearse-paced cars is all wet.

So say the people who should know, chamber of commerce types, police, statisticians and such-like.

Publisher-writer Filion was a recent Canadian Club speaker here, and made his views about Victoria known when he returned to his newspaper, Le Devoir, in Montreal. They weren't exactly laudatory.

Said he: Victoria was the last refuge of the Victorian middle class... very little happens... the slightest item of news takes on an exaggerated importance... cars move like hearses and people walk like pallbearers... average age must be at least 70... Victoria is more like a rest home than a city... etc., etc.

Well, average age of chamber of commerce directors is under 45 years, and this active group challenges Eastern cities to match that.

Said managing-secretary Hector Crombie: "It's unfortunate Mr. Filion visited the area for so short a time and left with such a number of misconceptions."

Of the major Canadian cities, he pointed out, Victoria was the fourth fastest growing, and growth is a sign of economic vitality "which is something, say, Quebec City can't match."

Chairman of the city's tourist trade group C. M. "Bob" Nelles just poo-pooed the Montreal man. "We are on a level as a city with any on the continent."

If cars moved like hearses, people wouldn't be able to get anywhere. In Greater Victoria with an approximate population of 120,000 persons, are 31,715 passenger vehicles, 5,798 commercial vehicles and 741 rip-roaring motorbikes. This means 3.1 persons per vehicle.

Ontario, long-vaunted hub of business, has 3.2 people per vehicle; Quebec, 3.3; Manitoba, 4.2, and Newfoundland a whopping 13.7.

Thus, Victoria vehicle population is higher than any provincial average with the exception of neighbor Alberta which was 2.7 persons per vehicle.

A senior police spokesman also garumphed at Mr. Filion's indictment. "The average motorist here drives to the limit, but there is certainly no criticism of them because they don't drive like mad all the time."

In Montreal there is a distinct tendency to ignore police, pedestrians and other drivers. There are only two types of pedestrians in Montreal impartial observers believe, "the quick and the dead."

Some 15,000 school children don't believe their average age is 70, despite Mr. Filion's statement to this effect.

Mr. Filion is right about one thing... that the slightest item of news takes on exaggerated proportions.

Thus this.

The Makings for Smart Earrings Yours for Asking

By PENNY SAVER

Last week I looked and looked, trying to find a pair of earrings to match a new skirt I had just made. Finally, in desperation, I decided that if I couldn't buy them I'd make them. So off I went to buy the "makings." First, some buttons. For 35 cents I bought a card of five metal buttons that I could cover myself. These buttons come in three sizes, and the directions how to cover them is printed right on the card. To adapt these buttons for jewelry purposes you simply remove from the centre the little wire hook used to attach the button to cloth.

Next, the earring backs. A pair of clip-on earring backs cost me 35 cents. Screw-on earring backs cost 19 cents and 35 cents a pair, depending on the size.

Also, I needed some glue. Forty-five cents bought me a tube of extra-strong glue that would hold my earrings together. Now, with all the "equipment," I started to work. In no time at all, I had covered the metal buttons with pieces of material left over from my skirt, and glued the buttons to the earring backs. Voilà! Special earrings for a special outfit! No more searching for complementary colors in earrings for me. With the materials left, I have enough to make a couple more pair... and I'll have fun doing it, too!

If you'd like to try your hand at making some earrings, there are sequins, pearls, mother-of-pearl leaves, and all colors of beads to choose from... for only 19 cents or 35 cents a package. Soft pique-covered buttons are made especially for making earrings cost only 19 cents a package. There are all sizes in these buttons, too. For those of you with a flair for shell-work, there are tiny pastel shells that would make beautiful earrings.

Perhaps you would like a pin to match! There are pin-backs made for you to adapt to your desires and needs... and they cost only 19 cents per pin.

In your spare time, you can whip up all sorts of little trinkets... and so inexpensively.

Remember, my number is 3-2121. Just call, and I'll pass on the name of the places to buy the articles mentioned in my column.

Gaining Weight In Order to Fly

QUEBEC (CP) — Madeleine Thibault, who nearly cracked up her plane on her first solo flight last July, says her ambition for 1955 is to become a paratrooper.

But army authorities think that at 100 pounds she'll blow away on a parachute jump. So, of all things, Madeleine now is trying to gain weight.

"Anyone who flies should be familiar with parachute jumping," says the tiny, 30-year-old brunette who is a nurse when away from the airfield.

Rash Decision Can Mean Bitter Regret Later On

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PhD

Seldom does a rash decision work out satisfactorily. Certainly decisions about one's whole future should not be made without careful thought from every angle.

(Q) "I am 21 years old and have a serious problem facing me. My parents will not let me date anyone of a different religion. I recently dated a swell guy in secret, but when he met my parents they blew a fuse. So we broke up. Fellows from my church don't even know I exist, though I'm an active member and attend all the affairs. Now I have definitely made up my mind to leave home and marry someone of any faith. I hate to do this, because my mother is ill and quite alone in years. But on the other hand, I'm tired of living with a ball-and-chain on my foot. I'm desperate and will do anything to lead a new life. I have a good job and earn enough to leave home. What is your opinion?"

(A) It seems to me that you are in no mental state now to make a decision that will affect the whole course of your life. You may do something you'll regret bitterly unless you wait until your emotions calm down.

So long as your parents feel as they do, you can be sure that you would cut yourself off from them forever if you married a man of another faith. With your mother old and in poor health, you certainly could not do that, no matter how you feel at the moment.

Go to your minister and tell him how matters stand. He may be able to convince your parents that marrying a man of a different religion would not necessarily affect your own faith, that he might even be willing to accept your faith.

He could certainly see to it that you met some young men of your own religion. He may not realize that you have not met any through your church activities.

Surely you must meet young men of your own faith through your business associates. If there are none where you work now, why not get a job in an organization where you will meet some? You are only 21 years old. You have your whole life ahead of you. Don't throw it away in a fit of desperation.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Work—With Rest—Will Help Keep You Young

It is fun to work hard for a goal, to live with enthusiasm and verve, to have myriad interests and even to feel the pressure which success in any walk of life brings with it. This is wonderful, invigorating and youth-prolonging, but you should add a few safety measures to your routine if you wish to live a long, vital life.

We should stop every once in a while to remember that heart trouble is the No. 1 killer and that about three times as many men as women die of this disease. There has been much speculation as to why this is so. One logical idea is that this happens because men live under greater pressure than women do.

While many women who run their homes and rear their children without help would refute this, it is true that the average man is under more constant strain in his work than the average woman is. The man feels the responsibility for the welfare of his family and is therefore subjected to emotional pressure in his battle for financial security.

Unless the woman is an abnormally doting and worrying mother and strives toward perfection in housekeeping, she can stop for a rest when she wishes. She can slow down the tempo of her day to a certain extent under normal circumstances if she will, and she has the emotional security of knowing that her man will take care of her.

It is probably better for happiness and even for health to have too little to do rather than too much, to have too many interests rather than too few, because boredom is an ailer and has a definitely bad effect on

MEN PANIC AS QUICKLY AS WOMEN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Men can get as excited and flustered as women behind the wheel of a car, says Gladys Klym.

Mrs. Klym speaks with authority on the subject; she is the only woman driver-teacher in Winnipeg and owns and operates her own driving school.

Since opening her school three years ago Mrs. Klym has taught more than 400 persons.

one knows that the answer to an important problem often comes after a good night's sleep or following a time of rest or diversion.

Women in the home should take life a little less seriously. Men at their jobs should relax at noon and take a real rest before dinner in the evening. Try it. You will find that you have accomplished just as much and maybe more. You will feel better and enjoy life more, and you will be cold-shouldering the No. 1 killer.

HARDWARE and HOME FURNISHINGS

Smart Ensembles Chosen By the Feminine Guests

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Early date of the opening of the first legislative assembly of 1955 has probably influenced the feminine viewpoint on the result that suits and soft tailcoats in fine wools and topped or embellished with sleek furs, will predominate on the state occasion. Tuesday afternoon. Amongst brilliant reds, and golds of uniforms and academic gowns and masculine greys, browns and black and white, there will be a rainbow of lovely color on the floor of the House where women guests will be seated.

Mrs. Clarence Wallace, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, has chosen a clear grey wool dress styled on classic lines. With this she will wear a silver mink cape and a hat of Parma violets shading from mauve to rose-purple.

Miss Ruth MacLean will be in a black coat dress with black velvet collar and cuffs, complemented with a black velvet beret shaped hat.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, wife of the Premier of British Columbia, will be smart in a classic navy sheer styled with all-over horizontal tucking from throat to hem and turn-back collar in champagne satin. With this she will wear a squirrel cape and smart spring hat, en tone.

Mrs. Lydia Arsens, only woman MLA, will wear a black tailored suit of fine wool with small pale pink feathered hat and mink coat.

Mrs. Eric Martin will wear at the opening a powder blue knitted suit with short black fur coat and small off-white hat. Mrs. Ray Williston has chosen a softly tailored black wool dress with pink felt hat accented by a black trim. Mrs. Wesley Black's dressmaker suit of fine wool will be in a crushed strawberry shade and she will complement it with a white straw hat with jeweled trim and small black veil. A grey squirrel jacket will complete her ensemble. Mrs. Ralph Chetynd will wear at the Legislature's opening a grey dressmaker suit with small blue feather hat and beaver stole; Mrs. R. W. Sommers has chosen a two-piece black crepe-back satin dress with black hat touched with brilliants and a three-quarter brown squirrel coat.

Mrs. George Gregory, wife of Victoria's Liberal MLA, has also chosen a black suit with white felt cloche-styled hat featuring side draping.

Mrs. Harold Robertson, Vancouver, has chosen a black silk suit for the occasion with large black velvet hat; Mrs. G. R. Pearkes will wear an afternoon dress in dusky pink, the long torso bodice embroidered. Her accessories will be a wine felt hat with jewel pin and a brown fur stole.

Many other attractive ensembles will be worn by feminine guests for the opening at the Parliament Buildings and for the reception to follow in the Empress Hotel.

February Wedding Foretold

February 12 is the date chosen by Genevieve Phyllis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Saturday Wedding Unites Margaret Vey, R. H. Pratt Masses of white chrysanthemums and fern formed the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Margaret Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Vey, 2595 Heron Street, and Roera Hori Pratt, Port Chalmers, New Zealand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt of Wanganui, New Zealand.

The ceremony took place in Metropolitan United Church, with Dr. F. E. H. James officiating. Mr. Vey gave his daughter in marriage.

Nylon embroidered sheer fashioned a wedding gown for the charming bride, featuring a Peter Pan collar, lily-point sleeves, and gracefully full skirt. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a bandeau of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, white stocks and fern.

Mrs. Elizabeth Runacles of Revelstoke was matron of honor for her sister, groomed in twilight blue embroidered nylon organdy with scalloped bodice and full skirt. Her flowers were blue iris and yellow chrysanthemums.

Best man was Mr. Keith Runacles of Revelstoke, and ushers were Master John Vey, brother of the bride, and Mr. W. Battison of Vancouver.

A reception followed in the church parlor, which was decorated with daffodils. The bride's mother, wearing a navy blue ensemble, assisted the newlyweds in receiving guests. Mr. W. Whiteley of Vancouver proposed the bridal toast.

Following a honeymoon up Island, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt will make their home in Victoria.

Provincial president Mrs. F. E. Dowdall presided at the meeting. Mrs. Noel Abbott, services at home and abroad convenor, reported shipment of nine crates

Two crates were sent to soldiers' and airmen's families, containing 75 nursery bags, 200 articles new clothing, including quilts and afghans.

Five crates went direct to England to Save the Children Fund to a total value of $800. Total of the complete shipment was $1,665.

S.A. in Mass Shift Of 60,000 Negroes

First Action in Government Program Of Segregation; Strike Action Threatened

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom's government begins a mass shift of 60,000 Johannesburg negroes next month in the face of possible strike action.

The transfer will be the greatest practical test yet undertaken to put into effect a program of racial apartheid separation laid down by South Africa's Nationalist rulers. As the negroes are moved to their new homes their old homes will be flattened by bulldozers. The cleared ground eventually will be turned into industrial sites for white investors.

The South African National Congress, which is about the only articulate negro body claiming mass membership, has vowed "to oppose the removal at every stage regardless of the consequences." Its statement warned that the government action will produce "an extremely dangerous and explosive situation."

Many Claim Move Too Harsh

The congress, claiming nearly 100,000 members, is under mixed left wing and Nationalist leadership. The leaders have wrapped the resistance plans in secrecy, but if court appeals fail they propose a strike of sympathetic negro workers in Johannesburg, the country's industrial and commercial nerve centre.

Most white South Africans support the Strijdom government's broad aim of separating white, black, brown and mixed blood groups from direct social and residential contact. But churchmen, sociologists and opposition politicians and newspapers have criticized the Johannesburg scheme as too harsh. They have complained it will destroy the right of non-whites to own property, and destroy good homes together with bad ones. The critics also have attacked the government for refusing to consult with the people being moved.

The negroes are being shifted from four slumtowns in the western area of Johannesburg, where they have lived for 50 years, to two new townships, mushrooming 12 miles outside the white-populated city.

Property Ownership Limited

But the population shift involves deeper issues than straight-forward slum clearance. The Strijdom government will withdraw the Negroes' right to own property and land outside their own specially-allotted reserves. In the new townships of Meadowlands and Diepkloof they will be allowed only to rent houses. Other non-white slum towns bordering the western areas are being left untouched because they are owned by the Johannesburg city council and so carry no property rights.

Government trucks will carry them to new homes, which are serviced with water, sewers, transportation, shops and will take four to five years. The government sees it as the pilot project in a drive toward complete separate racial compartments for her 2,500,000 whites, 8,000,000 Bantu Negroes, 1,000,000 colored or mixed blood folk and 350,000 Asians.

The resettlement board says no troubles are expected when the first few hundred families are shifted Feb. 12. These families, now living in buffer zones between the western areas and white areas, have received removal notices.

Bulldozers to Flatten Homes

As the Negroes leave, bulldozers will crush their homes out of existence to prevent squatting. Thousands of these homes are crude shacks. Thousands of others—a Johannesburg city council survey valued them at more than $3,000,000—are brick structures which should be prized anywhere. Almost all are hopelessly overcrowded. Whole families often live in single rooms. Disease infests the area. Crime stalks even in daylight. Most Negroes carry loaded sticks, knives concealed in cases or daggers for their own protection against gangs of hoodlums. Informants say these hoodlums have resorted to dirty often because they lacked the government man's permission to seek work or to live in cities.

U.S. Scientists Develop Star-Guided Global Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported Saturday to be nearing the "payoff stage" in developing atomic missiles that can be guided from this continent to the heart of Communist Russia.

A high defense official said: "We are today at the payoff stage in the development of the missile art that far exceeds anything anybody known to me has yet done."

TERRIFIC SPEED

One type of rockets would attain an early burst of speed of about 9,000 miles per hour, to drop like bullets behind the Iron Curtain.

The other advanced type of inter-continental missile is jet powered, traveling more slowly, with built-in guidance mechanism capable of taking bearings from the stars.

The missiles men say that half the weapons launched should explode their devastating nuclear loads within a target circle of no more than 20 miles in diameter.

To achieve this degree of accuracy, the scientists are developing more effective propulsion. They are simultaneously pushing the refinement of mechanisms to direct the missiles' electronic brains.

Officials say equal emphasis is going into the job of protecting the United States against the missile threat from Russia.

But despite the Nike anti-aircraft missiles with which the army is ringing the nation's capital, there is still no guaran-

SUPREME SOVIET TO MEET FEB. 3

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia's Supreme Soviet will meet in the Kremlin Feb. 3, several weeks before the regular annual session is normally held, Moscow radio announced Sunday.

The suddenness of Sunday's summons led to immediate speculation in Western circles. Western observers believed the summons might herald a new Soviet bid to prevent or delay ratification of the Paris agreements.

Crew Brands Ship Captain As 'Coward'

HAMBURG, Germany (UP)—A German sea captain charged with cowardice by members of his crew because he would not try to rescue 12 drowning men on a sinking ship was criticized by a maritime court here.

The court ruled that Capt. Franz Krammer, 63, Hamburg, should have kept his 7,307-ton Liberian tanker Casino standing by the wreck of the Dutch coastal ship "Carpo" off the southern tip of England last November 27 until all hope for survivors had vanished.

Members of Krammer's crew testified he refused to risk a rescue attempt in the heavy North Sea storm and ordered the Casino to proceed after standing by for one hour and 55 minutes.

Half of Krammer's 36-man crew charged him with cowardice and left the ship in protest in Rotterdam two days after the Carpo went down.

Krammer defended himself by claiming he had to consider the safety of his own ship in the bad storm. He said that was why he ordered his vessel to proceed.

DJILAS, DEDIJER CHARGED

Foreign Press Barred From Yugoslav Trial

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslavia's government began a secret trial of former vice-president Milovan Djilas and Vladimir Dedijs today on charges they tried to undermine President Marshal Tito's regime through the writings of foreign newspapermen.

In an atmosphere of tension, a crowd of 100 booed and hissed the two defendants and shouted epithets at foreign correspondents waiting outside the courtroom.

The foreign press was barred from the trial from the start. Soon after it opened representatives of Yugoslavia's official press and about 100 other spectators were ejected at the request of the state prosecutor, apparently in an effort to prevent the proceedings from leaking out to the foreign reporters.

Conviction could bring Djilas and Dedijs, both Tito's wartime comrades in arms, sentences ranging from six months to 20 years at hard labor.

OBJECT TO PUBLICITY

In barring the foreign journalists from the court, the government charged they had carried on a campaign to discredit Tito's regime connection with the case and would not "faithfully report the trial." The regime objected to the wide publicity given the case abroad and to foreign speculation that it indicated a split in the ruling Communist ranks.

Carter, one of two frogmen working in Vancouver harbor, said he believed it was a case of mistaken identity.

Armed Hold-Up on Sooke Road Saturday Followed by Arrest of Three Men

RCMP early Sunday morning arrested three men following an armed robbery Saturday evening at Hi-Way Grocery on the Sooke Highway near 17-Mile House.

Charged in Sooke police court today, and remanded in custody and without plea to January 31, when a preliminary hearing will be held, were James Donald Goudie, 23, of Sooke; Leo William Seppala, 18, of Saseenos; and Thomas Albert Lamb, 33, of Luxton.

One of the three was arrested by RCMP Colwood detachment officers at Luxton at 1 a.m., and Const. P. Humphries of Sooke arrested two men in Sooke at 5 a.m.

Police said during and presence of mind of the 73-year-old proprietor, Mrs. Patience Norman, and her daughter, Mrs. Ida Pearson, led to the arrests.

According to reports, three men drove to the store, and two entered the building. One carried a rifle.

Taken were $33 in cash, cigarettes, cookies and chocolate bars. While the men were in the store they ripped the receiver from the telephone and took it away with them.

The men then took some gas from the pumps in front of the store for their car. While they were still outside Mrs. Pearson went to the telephone and repeated a message over and over in the hope it would be heard by the operator.

Meantime, Mrs. Norman had gone to the porch, noted the license number and shouted for help.

Her cries were heard by a passing motorist, Herb Winship, who lives nearby. He stopped and turned around. The three men drove off with Winship in pursuit, but they eluded him. He stopped at a coffee shop and notified police, but found that Mrs. Pearson's message into the damaged telephone had been received and the police informed.

17 Die, 42 Hurt In Train Wreck

Bristol Express Smashed; Second Crash Averted

SUTTON COLDFIELD, Eng. (Reuters)—The death toll rose to 17 today in the derailment of a York-Bristol express train in the station here Sunday. One of the women among the 43 persons critically injured died in hospital.

Police said more bodies are believed to be still in the piled-up debris of the train and the badly damaged Sutton Coldfield station.

A second wreck was averted by a trained nurse and a railway fireman. They ran down the tracks and flagged down a speeding passenger train before it could smash into the wreckage of the derailed express.

Their identities were unknown until today, when railway officials tracked them down. They are Derek Smith, off-duty fireman on the wrecked express, and Mrs. Marjorie Fairley, 40-year-old mother of three children. She and her husband were painting their house when she saw the train jump the rails.

Sunday's crash was Britain's first major rail crash since August, 1953, and the worst since Oct. 8, 1952, when 112 persons died in a three-train pile-up in North London.

TURNED TURTLE
The express hurtled off the track just as it was passing the Sutton Coldfield station. The engine turned upside down, six coaches telescoped into each other and three of the four remaining cars smashed into the station building, which is not open on Sunday.

Two cranes lifted the engine from the tracks and rescuers cut for an hour with oxy-acetylene torches through the tangled debris to recover the bodies of crewmen.

A railway statement said that wrecked express normally would not have run through Sutton Coldfield, but was diverted here because of repairs to the line at nearby Tamworth. The Queen sent a telegram to the Queen Mother John Boyd-Carpenter expressing "sympathy with the relatives of those who have lost their lives and with those who have been injured."

The report from the crown corporation, which does or directs all Canadian atomic research and development, said detailed designs for the power reactor would begin, "in the spring of 1955."

PRELUDE TO SECOND KOREA?

Chou Rejects Cease-Fire Plan

LONDON (UP)—Red China's premier and foreign minister Chou En-lai today warned the United States against "intervention" in Communist China's "liberation" of Formosa.

"The government of the Peoples' Republic of China has repeatedly and in solemn terms declared to the world: The Chinese people are determined to liberate their own territory of Taiwan (Formosa)," the Red leader said.

Diplomatic observers noted the similarity between Chou's warning statement today, and Red China's "solemn warnings" before Red Chinese troops entered the Korean war.

"Taiwan," the Chinese premier said, "is an inalienable part of China's territory. The liberation of Taiwan is a matter of China's sovereignty and internal affairs. No outside interference is allowed."

Chou quoted from article two, paragraph seven of the United Nations charter which forbids UN intervention in "matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of any state."

"Therefore," he said, "neither the United Nations nor any foreign country has the right to intervene in the Chinese people's liberation of Taiwan."

"The government of the Peoples' Republic of China absolutely cannot agree to a so-called cease-fire with the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist Chinese leader), repudiated by the Chinese people."

"The present tension in the Taiwan area can only be attributed to the fact that the United States government has occupied Taiwan, shielding the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique and incessantly directed subversive activities and war threats against the Peoples' Republic of China."

7th Fleet 'Ready for Anything'

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—America's powerful 7th Fleet was "on the alert and ready" today to evacuate Nationalist forces from the Red-threatened Tachen Islands.

The fleet's commander, Vice-Adm. Alfred M. Pride, said his ships, planes and men were prepared to deal with any counter-move the Chinese Communists might attempt in the area.

All that is needed to set his force in motion, Pride said in an interview, is final orders from Washington where at noon today President Eisenhower presented an extraordinary request to Congress for approval of defensive warfare — if necessary — to protect Formosa and its outposts.

Asked if the 7th Fleet could cope with Chinese Communist air power, based at big bases at Shanghai and other nearby inland cities, Pride replied, "we very certainly could."

A naval spokesman said, "the 7th Fleet is on the alert, on time and ready for anything."

Britain Worried Over Malaya

LONDON (UP)—Reliable sources said today British military planners were mapping an emergency defense line to protect Malaya if the Communists should advance in Indo-China and into Thailand.

They said preliminary plans for defending the strategic area called for a safety line along the northern border of Malaya, in the triangle between Burma, Thailand and the Isthmus of Kra.

The planning, initiated by Britain in consultation with Australia and New Zealand, was emphasized by the official disclosure that Britain was developing air bases in Malaya for jet bombers.

CIDER, METHYL ALCOHOL, GINGER ALE, SHAVING LOTION

City Sailor 'Slightly Improved' After Drinking Spree on 'Maggie'

Condition of PO Maynard Johnson, 34, of Victoria, hospitalized in Halifax with 46 other sailors poisoned after drinking methyl alcohol Friday, today was reported "slightly improved."

This word was received by his wife at 716 Craigflower Road.

Obviously upset, Mrs. Jackson said she was waiting for word whether or not she will fly to her husband's bedside. It will be a naval decision based on doctors' reports.

PO Johnson has been in the navy 12 years and was last home when his ship the aircraft carrier HMCS Magnificent visited Victoria in early November.

The veteran sailor was first listed as "dangerously ill." Sunday night seven of the men were on the danger list, seven were severely ill and the other 33 were still being treated at Stadacona naval base.

The navy said many of the sailors didn't know what they were drinking.

PO Johnson was one of two petty officers on the spree, with the other 35 lower ratings. Doctors pumped a life-saving alkaline solution into their veins in a marathon attempt to ward off death.

Methyl alcohol taken internally is known to cause permanent blindness, but up to Sunday night there had been no loss of eyesight.

Victims are suffering from a condition known as "acidosis," a depleting of alkali reserves in blood cells and tissues.

The navy has opened a formal investigation aboard the carrier. After preliminary inquiries, the navy said the poisonous mixture was concocted and passed around the ship surreptitiously.

"There was no party aboard the ship," the statement said. It added that the drinking of the mixture has escaped detection by duty officers on regular rounds because of the manner in which it was secretly distributed.

The mixture that caused the poisoning was reported a combination of apple cider, duplicating machine fluid which contained methyl alcohol, ginger ale and shaving lotion.

Ready to Hit Red Mainland If Necessary

Democrats Promise Support For 'Halt-or-War' Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress to declare United States "readiness to fight" to keep Formosa out of Red hands and "to engage in whatever operations may be required to carry out that purpose."

In a special message, the President said "our purpose is peace," but that Red Chinese threats already pose a serious danger to U.S. security "and indeed to the peace of the world."

A declaration from Congress, Eisenhower said, "will reduce the possibility that the Chinese Communists, misjudging our firm purpose and national unity, might be disposed to challenge the position of the United States, and precipitate a major crisis which even they would neither anticipate nor desire."

The President emphasized that the defense of Formosa might require hitting the Red Chinese before they left their home ports.

He said the U.S. must be prepared to:

1. Help the Chinese Nationalists deploy and consolidate their forces now scattered over many smaller islands off Red China's shores, and

2. "Be alert to any concentration or employment of Chinese Communist forces obviously undertaken to facilitate attack upon Formosa, and be prepared to take appropriate military action."

As soon as the President's message was read to the separate branches of Congress, the Democratic chairman of the two committees responsible for foreign relations introduced identical resolutions in line with Eisenhower's request.

Eisenhower said the United States and all free nations have a common interest that Formosa and the Pescadores Islands should not fall into Communist hands.

He did not say specifically which other islands the United States might defend, on the basis of need to hold them for the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores, but he called Quemoy Island "one of the natural approaches to Formosa."

Quemoy is at the entrance to the vital mainland harbor city of Amoy.

The president said he was not announcing any new policy but was seeking mainly to clarify present policy, and "to unite in its application."

Quick Action Held Vital
He added: "In the interest of peace... the United States must remove any doubt regarding our readiness to fight, if necessary, to preserve the vital stake of the Free World in a free Formosa."

OTTAWA (BUP)—External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson promised the Commons today to make a statement Tuesday concerning the Formosa situation.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) asked Pearson whether Canada would try in the United Nations to arrange a cease-fire and described the situation as "perilous."

and to engage in whatever operations may be required to carry out that purpose."

Eisenhower indicated that Nationalist Chinese troops could not be removed from outlying threatened islands except under protection of U.S. air power—a step that in itself could lead to immediate clashes with the Red China air force.

Eisenhower said the existing and developing situation around Formosa "poses a serious danger to the security of our country and of the entire Pacific area and indeed to the peace of the world."

He then said the situation "is one for appropriate action of the United Nations under its charter, for the purpose of ending present hostilities in that area."

The United States "would welcome assumption of such jurisdiction" by the UN in an attempt to arrange a cease-fire between the Chinese Nationalists and the attacking forces of Red China.

Declaring the actions the United States must be ready to undertake "are of various kinds," Eisenhower added: "For example, we must be ready to assist the Republic of China."

Atom Sub Home Again
GROTON, Conn. (UP)—The atomic-powered submarine Nautilus returned to port today after week-long trials during which it cruised more than 1,000 miles, made 50 dives and tested its torpedo armament, the navy announced. But it was not disclosed whether a torpedo actually was fired.

Early Start Ordered On A-Power Generator

OTTAWA (BUP) — Canada's atomic scientists and industrial engineers expect to produce electric energy from atomic heat in a prototype power plant early in 1958, Parliament was told today.

The annual report of Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., was tabled in the House of Commons by John Dickey (L-Halifax), parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister C. D. Howe.

The report, signed by Atomic Energy of Canada president W. J. Bennett, said it was expected a number of companies would take part in the project.

They will be aimed at "the completion of construction early in 1958," the report said.

The power reactor will be the fourth built at the country's atomic energy centre at Chalk River, but the first designed to produce electric power. It will be built by private firms working under a government contract in co-operation with government nuclear scientists.

Congress Support Indicated for Plan To Defend Formosa

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today asked Congress to declare United States "readiness to fight" to keep Formosa out of Red hands and "to engage in whatever operations may be required to carry out that purpose."

In a special message, the President said "our purpose is peace," but that Red Chinese threats already pose a serious danger to U.S. security "and indeed to the peace of the world."

A declaration from Congress, Eisenhower said, "will reduce the possibility that the Chinese Communists, misjudging our firm purpose and national unity, might be disposed to challenge the position of the United States, and precipitate a major crisis which even they would neither anticipate nor desire."

The President emphasized the defence of Formosa might require hitting the Red Chinese before they left their home ports.

He said the U.S. must be prepared to: 1. Help the Chinese Nationalists deploy and consolidate their forces now scattered over many smaller islands off Red China's shores, and 2. "Be alert to any concentration or employment of Chinese Communist forces obviously the defense of Formosa and the upon Formosa, and be prepared may Island "one of the natural to take appropriate military approaches to Formosa."

As soon as the President's message was read to the separate branches of Congress, the Democratic chairman of the two committees responsible for the foreign relations introduced resolutions in line with Eisenhower's request.
